

We'll Answer With Force Says Nikita

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev challenged the West on all major cold war issues last night and demanded a German peace treaty within six months. This would end the Western occupation rights in Berlin.

"Some threaten they will not recognize a treaty and will use force to oppose it," Khrushchev said. "Any force against us will be answered by force. We have the means."

His take-it-or-leave-it challenge came in an unprecedented, internationally televised "fireside chat" on his Vienna talks with President Kennedy.

He called the Vienna talks worthwhile and said there should be further sessions so world problems "may be solved eventually."

But he restated his intent to sign a peace treaty with East Germany within the year and end the allied occupation rights there.

Ulbricht Threatens

Only a few hours earlier East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht openly threatened interference with West Berlin's traffic should a peace treaty be signed and hinted that Western planes might be forced down if they tried to form another Berlin airlift.

Khrushchev's statement was a grim restatement of every Soviet stand of the past year from Berlin to disarmament. Last night he appeared to doom the Geneva nuclear test ban talks to failure when he insisted on his plan for "troika" control—a three-man control commission comprised of representatives of the East,

West and a neutralist nation, with each man carrying a veto.

Khrushchev was unyielding on any cold war point. He called for a German peace treaty within the year, threatened to hand over Berlin communication routes to the East Germans and said Russia would fight to help East Berlin defend its borders.

He was just as unyielding on disarmament. He said all attempts to reach agreement on disarmament have failed and restated his demands for a Communist veto in future cold war negotiations. He called again for veto controls over United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

United States Blamed

He blamed the United States for the growing crisis in Laos but put the blame more on former president Dwight D. Eisenhower than on Kennedy. He warned, however, that the United States must be aware of the consequences of further provocations in Asia.

Though much of his speech was a restatement of previous speeches and his Vienna memoranda to Kennedy on Berlin and disarmament, Khrushchev said that lack of a German peace treaty threatened world war.

"In general I was satisfied with the talks" with President Kennedy," he said. The talks were very frank. I listened to the American views and our views were listened to. That was valuable.

"It was not expected that agreement would be reached. But I believe that Kennedy understands the great responsibilities of our two powerful states."

Later in his speech Khrushchev was particularly bitter toward a group of Canadian and American parliamentarians who allegedly have urged a nuclear war against the Soviet Union. He called them "hyenas" and said they should be put into a strait jacket.

Odorous Honor

OTTAWA (UPI)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton yesterday fulfilled a promise to her arch-rival controller Paul Tardif by naming an avenue after him.

Before Tardif could express his thanks, Miss Whitton added: "It will be the road to the new sewage treatment plant."

Pigeons Play It Cool

With the weatherman calling for more of the same today (yesterday it hit 80 degrees), Victorians can take their cue from these smart Los Angeles pigeons, who know a good thing when they see it. The City of the Angels reported an official high temperature only three degrees above Victoria.—(AP Photofax.)

Coyne Counter-Attack Keeps Battle Boiling

OTTAWA (CP)—James E. Coyne, with a government axe hanging over his job, struck back yesterday with a charge that the government—not himself—has failed to meet the country's economic problems.

An accusation of inadequate fiscal action by the government was contained in a sharply-worded statement by the Bank of Canada governor replying to Wednesday's heavy attack on him by Finance Minister Fleming in the Commons.

The counter-attack by one of the country's top public servants kept at a boiling point the controversy over the government's May 30 request for his resignation. Mr. Coyne refused to quit and Mr. Fleming said Wednesday the government will seek parliamentary action to fire him.

The strongest rebuff by the 50-year-old governor was to Mr. Fleming's statement that Mr. Coyne—custodian of monetary policy—had advocated "restrictionist" economic policies.

"The trouble has not been in the field of monetary policy, which has always played a constructive part in Canadian economic development," Mr. Coyne said.

"What has been lacking so far is adequate action in the field of fiscal growth of the Canadian economy under Canadian ownership and control."

OBVIOUS REFERENCE. In an obvious reference to Mr. Fleming's statement that government policy is "expansionist" aimed at increased trade, production and jobs, the governor commented:

"In this respect Mr. Fleming revealed yesterday the government now has been suddenly converted. The whole country will be glad to hear this."

IMPOSSIBLE. Mr. Coyne, in effect, rejected Mr. Fleming's statement that it has become impossible for the government to expect the bank governor's cooperating in its pending economic program.

Mr. Coyne noted the minister's statement that he had been given no information about next Tuesday night's budget.

"What is needed now is for Mr. Fleming to bring forward this program in order that it can be judged on the basis of knowledge of the facts rather than hints and forecasts.

"I repeat again that the Bank of Canada is at all times ready to play its part in co-operation with sound, constructive government policy."

CBC Offer Refused By Coyne

OTTAWA (UPI)—The CBC says that James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, has declined an invitation from the network to appear with Finance Minister Fleming in a special half-hour television press conference.

A CBC spokesman said Mr. Fleming had accepted the invitation to face a panel of reporters with the bank governor.

'Borrow in U.S.' For Columbia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Canadian professors conclude that it would be a lot cheaper to borrow Columbia River development funds in the United States than in Canada.

In a study prepared for a private research organization known as Resources for the Future, the University of Western Ontario professors suggest the U.S. government should do most of the borrowing and turn the proceeds over to a Canadian development agency.

The professors estimated that if the Canadian funds for the project are raised in Canada, the interest rate might be about 5 1/2 per cent. This would decrease to about 3 per cent if borrowing is done by a Canadian government in the

Shipping Paralysis Threatens

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four maritime unions early today called an immediate three-day strike against shipowners that could paralyze the American merchant shipping industry.

The strike threatens to idle about 1,000 American passenger ships, freighters and tankers.

With him on the commission were George Johnston and Claude Beaubien.

CANADIAN DRUG PRICES RATED WORLD'S HIGHEST

Action Urged To Block Ad 'Raids'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Gratian O'Leary royal commission on publications proposed action on two fronts Thursday to block American raids on Canadian advertising revenues:

Increased costs to advertisers who choose a foreign-owned outlet and an import ban on foreign magazines carrying advertising aimed specifically at the Canadian market. (See also Page 14.)

SOMBRE VIEW

The commission said the role of the periodical press in building Canadian unity cannot be ignored, but it cannot contribute its share if it is beset by overwhelming competitive conditions that threaten its survival.

With this sombre view of the situation in the Canadian magazine field, the three-man commission suggested a program to halt the flow of domestic advertising revenues to U.S.-owned periodicals no matter where they are printed.

DIRECT METHOD

The commission said the simplest and most direct method of dealing with the diversion of Canadian domestic advertising to foreign periodicals printed in Canada is to deny the advertiser the privilege of deducting his advertising costs as a business expense.

SCHEDULE URGED

For foreign periodicals entering Canada, the commission proposed that Canada provide under a Customs Act schedule that magazines entering Canada shall contain no advertising "which on its face indicates the availability of a product or service in Canada or is otherwise primarily directed to consumers in Canada."

MAIN TARGETS

Principal targets if the recommendations are adopted by the government would be Time and Reader's Digest. Both magazines publish Canadian editions and between them have been picking up some 40 per cent of magazine advertising revenue in Canada.

The Canadian edition of Time is printed in the U.S. but it has announced plans to move the printing job to Canada. The Reader's Digest is printed in Montreal.

BEING CONSIDERED

In tabling the report in the Commons, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the government is giving it careful consideration in the light of the administration's objective "to foster a sound and strong Canadianism."

Much of the writing of the 25,000-word report—reinforced by a bulky separate volume of appendices—carried the unmistakable style of commission chairman Gratian O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal and a newspaperman for more than half a century.

With him on the commission were George Johnston and Claude Beaubien.

OTTAWA (UPI)—A three-year preliminary study, released yesterday by the federal government, blames both manufacturers and retailers for Canadian drug prices being "among the highest in the world."

The study, submitted by combines investigation director D. H. W. Henry as background for a fuller probe, said Canadian drug prices generally ran about 11 per cent above United States levels, already criticized as exorbitant by a U.S. Congressional committee.

Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton, who tabled the preliminary study in the Commons, announced earlier this week that the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission will open public hearings on the issue July 4 in Ottawa.

KEY FACTORS

Henry's 290-page report pointed to the control over drug manufacture, distribution and sale given manufacturers through patents as the key factor behind the high prices. These patents have been used to create a monopolistic situation which had "virtually eliminated" competition in ethical drug pricing, the report said.

ADVANTAGE TAKEN

"The clear intention of the special provisions of the Canadian patent law is that this situation should not obtain," it said. "However, advantage has not been taken of these provisions and the drug industry in Canada is, for all practical purposes, operating under conditions determined by the patent laws of the United States."

DRUGGISTS BLAMED

On the retail level, the report said it found "very little" price competition. And it blamed the situation on the druggists themselves for adopting with little variation the suggested prices and rates provided by manufacturers' and pharmacists' associations.

'FROWNED ON'

"Failure by a druggist to observe these suggested prices is frowned on as chiselling," it added.

The same situation applied to prescriptions, the report said. Any attempt by druggists to compete in this field was regarded as "at least verging on unethical conduct," it said.

NO ALTERNATIVE

On the controversy over generic versus brand names, the report said increased use of generic names by doctors would "undoubtedly exert some pressure on the prices of brand-named products."

GRATIAN O'LEARY

'They Mean To Destroy Us'—Time

MONTREAL (CP)—Time magazine said yesterday it is slated for destruction in Canada if the O'Leary report were put into effect and doubted the government or the Canadian people would approve the recommendations.

'CLEAR INTENTION'

Lawrence E. Laybourne, managing director of Time International of Canada Limited, said "the clear intention of the report" seems to be to destroy Time in Canada. "We cannot believe that the government would adopt such recommendations or that the Canadian people would approve such action."

The Reader's Digest said some of the recommendations are "discriminatory" against what it considers to be a Canadian operation.

'Rock' Tactics Mend Marriages Overnight

LONDON (UPI)—Britons, whose divorce rate is soaring, were advised yesterday by the "Solicitors' Journal" to follow the custom of the tiny Okinawan fishing village of Ganka and set up a "divorce rock."

The magazine said that when a marriage in Ganka appeared to be heading for a divorce, the couple is banished to the offshore "divorce rock" with no other company and only one blanket for the two of them.

The Journal added that it usually takes only one night to bring an end to any marital squabble. The custom works well—Ganka has not had a divorce in 50 years.

Six-Months Ultimatum On Berlin

GENEVA (UPI)—The first assessment of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's speech by Western diplomats last night was that he had given the West what amounts to a six months ultimatum to accept a Berlin settlement, Russian fashion, and like it.

Diplomats attending the Geneva Laos and nuclear conferences said his policy blueprint left the West no doubt that Allied refusal will not stop him from handing controls of Berlin communication routes to the East German Communists.

They said the blueprint amounted to take it or leave it challenge on all cold war issues in Europe and elsewhere.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary Lord Home yesterday called Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's scheme for dividing control of world organizations "the most sterile and bankrupt doctrine that has ever been advanced." He said if accepted, it would mean "the end of the United Nations as we know it today."

Terror on TV Copied by Tiny Tots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators yesterday watched a film showing tiny tots committing television-type mayhem on their dolls.

Another film shown to the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee showed children who don't watch violent TV shows playing quietly with plastic tea sets and crayons.

The films were made by Stanford University psychologists as part of an experiment to find out whether children imitate the aggressive acts they see on television.

Dr. Albert Van Dura, a Stanford psychology professor, said they do.

The first film shows children who just watched a violent 10-minute film kicking a doll around the room, throwing it in the air, sitting on it and beating it with a mallet while screaming "punch him in the nose" and "kick him."

Such remarks, said Van Dura, were extremely rare among children who hadn't watched adult violence.

The children who hadn't watched the film picked up crayons, tea sets and plastic farm animals to play with.

Van Dura said the experiment left little doubt that "exposure to filmed aggressions heightens aggressive reactions in children."

Van Dura said his group observed the children through one-way mirrors, and decided children who watched the film were twice as violent as those who hadn't. Indeed, he said, the violence-watchers were "carbon copies" of the actors they watched.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

NEVER ask a policeman a question in Juarez, Mexico.

That's the advice of Raymond Cote, Victoria advertising salesman, who was beaten, robbed and thrown into jail by uniformed policemen — just because he asked a question.

"You may not believe it, but it's true," he says. Staying at El Paso, Texas, in the course of a bus tour through the United States, he made a short excursion one evening across the border to Juarez.

He went to a night club, drank only one beer, and got ready to go back to his hotel in El Paso. Three policemen in brown uniforms, armed with revolvers and night-sticks, were standing by the street.

"Can you tell me where to find a taxi?" he asked. And then, he says, the following things happened:

They tried to force him into a car—not a police car, "but an old beat-up 1949 Ford."

When he refused, they threw him in. He bounced across the seat, and out the door on the other side. As the door flung open, it caught one policeman a blow on the head.

He ran away. One policeman, the biggest of the three, chased him for some distance; caught up with him, punched him in the stomach and kicked him in the ribs.

The policeman (who had Ray outweighed and outwitted) grabbed him and propelled him into the car. He took $20 from Ray's wallet—all the money he had with him, except for $1 in an odd corner of the wallet.

At the police station they beat him up and threw him in a smelly cell, 10 by 20 feet, which he shared with 27 other men. Six of them were Mexicans, sentenced to jail terms for crimes. One was serving life for murder.

There were no chairs or beds, except two cots occupied by long-term prisoners. There was one tap and one toilet.

"In the morning they brought around a slop bucket full of tortillas with some kind of meat sauce. I took one bite, but I couldn't swallow it. I didn't dare to drink the water. It's polluted."

A U.S. soldier, who was Ray's fellow-prisoner, shared some of his K-ration with him.

"I wasn't allowed to make a telephone call, and I couldn't find out what I was supposed to have done," he said. "I had no communication with the guards. They spoke Spanish, and I don't speak it."

"Through one of the Mexican prisoners I managed to find out that I was supposed to pay a 'fine' of 150 pesos, about $12.

"I persuaded a man who was visiting the jail to go to my hotel in El Paso and ask for the money I had in safekeeping there. The hotel wouldn't give him the whole envelope, but they gave him $20.

"He paid my 'fine,' and they let me out. I never heard any charge. There was no trial.

"I asked a Mexican what would have happened if I hadn't been able to produce any money. They would have let you rot here," he said.

"In El Paso I told the hotel clerk what had happened. He said he could have warned me before I went, but he didn't think it was his place to do that. He said it was well-known that they prey on tourists, in Juarez."

"I used to think it was the civilians you had to watch out for in Mexico, but I have learned differently. It's the policemen you have to watch."

Luckier people have spent years in Mexico without running into trouble. However, they probably didn't visit Juarez and ask a policeman where they could find a taxi.

Your Good Health

Take Your Time Over Meals And Keep That Weight Down

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

I keep pounding away on that common problem of our hemisphere — how to lose pounds.

Betsy Biggar, dietitian at the University of Michigan Medical Centre, recently gave some tips she has found effective and helpful. I'll quote just one pithy paragraph of what she has to say:

"You are apt to eat less, if you eat very slowly. Since food is thinner and serves your food on a smaller plate to make it look like more. If there are certain foods that you cannot resist, do not keep them in the house. If they are there for other members of the family, store them in a special, separate place which is forbidden to you."

None of these suggestions, of course, is going to make it easy to shed weight.

However, it is most certainly true that if you make use of every possible helpful factor, the chances of ultimate success are very much better. But if you try to do the whole job just by relying on one factor—relying entirely on will power—you are stacking the odds against yourself.

Of Miss Biggar's ideas, I believe the matter of eating slowly is perhaps the most important. If you've ever noticed children who are in a food-fussing cycle, if you can get them to stuff their food in with reasonable dispatch, you are successful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard much about cancer detection centres. Could you advise me how to find one in my area?"—E. F."

Call either your city health department or your local Cancer Society chapter. Some are listed in phone books.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that a woman becomes pregnant during the 72 hours before her period, or the 72 hours after. Then the seed is dead. I would like to hear your side of it, or in this another old wives' tale?"—Mrs. C. H."

Pregnancy is possible in the time in which the ovum has left the ovary and is making its way through the tube from the ovary. This occurs, roughly, midway between periods, and not, as you were told, at the time of the period. Limiting this to any particular number of hours is pretty difficult, but the time of maximum fertility is probably in the neighborhood of 48 hours or so.

Planes Demanded for Laos Mission

Machine Milks Profits

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Louis Miclak, 51, needed a quart of milk last night.

He went to a street corner automatic vending machine, deposited 30 cents, and pushed the plunger. With a whirl and thump the quart arrived.

Miclak picked up the quart and started to walk away. There was another whirl, another thump and a second quart.

Miclak removed the second quart just before the third arrived and still the machine went on cranking out milk.

Forty quarts later, the machine stopped. Miclak called for help.

"I only wanted one," Miclak said as he picked up a single carton and headed home.

Off to Crying Start

Legend has it that a baby who cries at his baptism will become successful, so John Clark Gable, son of the late Hollywood star, seems to be off to a flying start in this Encino, Calif., scene. He is held by his mother, Kay.

GENEVA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada called Thursday for a no-nonsense approach to the supplying of air inspection equipment for the International Control Commission in Laos.

Green told the 14-power conference on war-torn Laos, in effect, that a blind eye has been turned to the request of the commission for planes necessary to do its job.

PRIVATE TALK

The Canadian foreign minister spoke in the plenary conference after a private talk with Malcolm MacDonald of Britain, co-chairman with the Soviet Union of the Laos conference.

Green declared: "Three weeks ago, on May 22, in reply to the inquiry from the co-chairman dated May 19, the commission said its minimum requirement of helicopters was six and of aircraft, six."

'REASONABLE STEP'

"I submit that it would be a reasonable step, without further word from the commission, for this conference to make available immediately at least three light aircraft and three helicopters and the personnel for their operation and maintenance."

Green said it was perfectly clear that the Geneva conference, which has been in session since May 16, could easily acquire the necessary air equipment for the India-Canada-Poland control commission to do its supervision of a Laotian cease-fire if the conference so willed.

"I therefore ask that the co-chairman arrange without further delay to make these and other essential requirements available," Green said.

SHARP NOTE

Green opened his speech on a sharp note by recalling that on May 18 here he emphasized "the vital importance of providing the commission with the essential technical means to supervise the cease-fire and report on its effectiveness."

Russia and Britain as co-chairmen had sent on May 19 a message asking the commission to state its technical requirements for the cease-fire and "I should have expected that by now the necessary equipment would have been provided," Green said.

Chen Yi Favors Green

GENEVA (UPI)—Communist Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi last night went to Canadian delegation headquarters to confer with Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green on buying wheat and getting the Laos peace conference "down to work."

The visit marked one of the few occasions the Chinese leader has left his secluded villa to meet a Westerner during the month-long Laos peace conference.

The only other occasion Chen made a public goodwill gesture to a Western diplomat was at the conference opening May 16. Chen then surprised even the diplomats by singling out only one delegate for a conference table handshake. That diplomat was Green.

City Hit By Riots

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—Riots against the Bolivian government broke out in this capital yesterday as U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson arrived on a fact-finding tour for President Kennedy. Two persons were killed and four wounded.

STEVENSON OUT

Police and troops fought the rioters with tear gas, dispersing a crowd of 500. Clashes with police in other parts of the city brought the fatalities, official sources said.

Stevenson himself was not in the city when the rioting broke out. It was learned that he was meeting with the Bolivian president at his residence about three miles outside of town.

Firemen stood by Stevenson's hotel with hoses, aviation cadets carrying bayonets flanked the hotel entrance, and troops armed with tear gas formed a semi-circle in front of the building.

Near-Riot Greets 'Swap' Team On Return to U.S. from Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Riotous scenes broke out at International Airport here Thursday as an angry real estate man seized tractors for prisoners negotiators and tried to put them under citizen's arrest for dealing with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

MAN CHASED

"They're bargaining away our freedom illegally," shouted Douglas R. Voorhees, while he held Duane Greathouse and Roy Bainer by the lapels.

When his hold was loosened, hundreds of enraged Cubans who had been looking on, chased Voorhees down a long concourse throwing punches and yelling insults.

No one was hurt and nobody arrested.

WASHINGTON-BOUND

The four-man tractor-for-prisoners delegation, an unofficial group composed of American technical experts, stopped on the way from Havana to Washington to report to its parent committee, headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, on Castro's latest demands.

He wants $28,000,000 worth of farm-type tractors in exchange for 1,167 prisoners he captured in the abortive rebel invasion of Cuba in April.

Polaris Sub Launched

U.S. Pacifists Foiled

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—The Polaris missile-firing nuclear submarine Thomas A. Edison was launched yesterday, and the navy and coast guard won a land and sea battle with pacifists who tried to reach the $100,000,000 craft.

Navy frogmen apprehended at least three swimmers who set out from shore to break into the restricted launch area. They were hauled aboard a cutter.

A cordon of coast guard cutters and small boats repeatedly fended off attempts by a small outboard, carrying four pacifists, to dart through the flotilla.

Nearly two dozen placard-carrying protesters, some wearing blue jeans, sandals and beanie hats, paraded quietly outside the dockyard. Their signs read "Eichmann 6,000,000—Polaris 60,000,000."

The wind freshens . . . whitecaps form . . . the canvas fills and you are under way. You have charted the course, noted reefs and shoals, compensated for drift and current. The boy at the helm can steer a true course if you have chosen it well. Any father must feel the magnitude of the task of guiding his son through life's uncertain waters. What responsible man could feel any other way? This is Fatherhood . . . the realization that nothing is so important as guiding your own son along a course that has maturity of outlook and responsibility as its destination. Such guidance requires a delicate touch, the mature understanding of a man who has sailed these waters before. And nowhere is this understanding more important than in the practice of Moderation in all things, including the use of whisky. It is this thought which The House of Seagram wishes to leave with you on Father's Day, 1961.

Mr. Green's Aim

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister Howard Green has given fair warning to the 14-nation conference on Laos that he intends to continue his demands that the truce commission be given the equipment and freedom of movement it needs to supervise the cease-fire agreement.

In his persistence on this point Mr. Green may not have smooth diplomacy on his side, but he has the advantage of common sense and a directness of thought—two commodities seemingly in short supply among the majority of other delegates to the Geneva meeting.

It would seem more than obvious that as long as the commission, made up of Canada, India and Poland, is restricted in its operation by lack of modern transportation and the failure of either of the belligerents to co-operate, no accurate report on truce violations can possibly be made to the conference members.

To date Mr. Green has received little backing for his proposals. Rather the 14-nation group split up into pro- and anti-Communist sides, each ready to condemn the International Control Commission for favoring one side or the other.

This cloudy and defeatist approach to the problem completely denies the fact that the success of the conference depends almost entirely on the effectiveness of the commission.

As it is inconceivable that the major powers in Geneva do not recognize this, it can only be assumed that they are deliberately and callously ignoring it for their own political gains.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Green can force the issue and bring to an end this revolting condonation of Laotians being sacrificed on the altar of foreign ideologies.

Hot and Cold

MR. PEARSON accuses the finance minister of contradicting himself by demanding the Bank of Canada governor's resignation since earlier Mr. Fleming had claimed he couldn't interfere with the bank's affairs. It is the Liberal leader who is good at contradiction.

Only last February he told a Montreal audience that control of the bank's policies must rest in the hands of the government, and that to leave this to one person, the bank governor, was "wrong and ill-advised."

Now he assails the government for taking the steps necessary to ensure that national monetary policies are decided by the government.

Mr. Pearson is becoming adept at blowing hot and cold. Only a few days ago he conferred with President Kennedy on foreign affairs and after that conference he proclaimed the "absolute necessity" of strengthening the Atlantic alliance because the cold war will continue for a long time.

In his next breath, however, he averred it would be a mistake for Canada to manufacture or accept nuclear weapons for her forces. How the necessity of strengthening the alliance can be reconciled with dodging a share of the responsibility only Mr. Pearson knows.

In fact, as has become evident since he assumed the leadership of his party, Mr. Pearson probably doesn't know himself. His statements on almost all major matters are continuously woolly and contradictory. His mind seems to react like a weather vane, turning according to the wind of expediency.

The New Wing

PATIENCE is having its reward in the case of the Royal Jubilee Hospital addition.

In the long interval since the hospital asked for and received public contributions toward the cost of a new wing, there has been some criticism of seemingly protracted delays in the planning and building program. There has also been, however, general acceptance of the fact that the detailed planning of a major hospital addition is enormously complicated, as is the business of preparing for the addition by making necessary changes in existing facilities while continuing to give normal service.

Now, according to the hospital building committee, tenders for the construction of the new wing are likely to be called within a month and building probably will begin in September. That in itself is good news, but the reward of the community's general patience is that without increasing its contribution, it will get more than it originally expected: a $3,000,000, five-storey wing instead of a $2,500,000, four-storey wing; a new operating-room suite described as one of the most progressive on this continent; instead of enlargement of the present operating accommodation; new and advanced facilities for neuro-surgery and for urology, and newly-developed oxygen, suction, sterilizing and nurse-calling systems.

These changes which have been both causes and results of delays seem amply to justify the long wait for a start on construction of the new wing. They ensure that when the wing is opened, Victoria will have every reason to be proud.

Topping the List

MILITARY weapons change and bombs get bigger but infantrymen have to know how to handle a rifle. This conventional arm remains a must for all units of armies everywhere. The man with his two feet planted on the ground still is a factor in all military strategy.

How well the local regular force unit, the Princess Patricia's, reacts to this responsibility is reflected on its team shooting prowess. At the recent B.C. shoot in Vancouver the Work Point marksmen came home loaded with trophies and the distinction of being the top service rifle team of all Canada.

That is an enviable role and one that reflects the fine state of efficiency of the 1st Battalion, PPCLI. Nor is the battalion's other team any less steady on the target. This team has captured the Western Command championship, another significant victory that speaks for itself.

The first team will leave next week for Bisley, there to match their skill against all military teams. The second will compete next month at Ottawa in the Dominion championships.

The Princess Patricia's, it can safely be concluded, know their stuff.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE United States is unfortunately if the health of President Kennedy is beginning to cause worry. Among the other attributes brought to the White House by JFK, as he is familiarly termed, was the substitution of youthful vigor for the ailments that beset his much older predecessor. A man's health is a criterion of such a burdensome office as the American presidency. There will be regret in Canada that planting a tree as a courtesy gesture in Ottawa may have aggravated a wartime back injury, and the hope that no physical handicap will impede the full functioning of his duties.

Without prejudice to those who will "stand in" for him, it is from JFK himself that the West looks for the full flavor of his incumbency.

Maclean's magazine projects a forecast of what the 1961 census will reveal. For instance, the population will be over 18,000,000; there will be 300,000 more women than men (possibly inviting a few bridegrooms); and Alberta and not British Columbia will prove to be the fastest-growing province. If true this latter will come as a shock to our provincial vanity, fixed as it is to the idea that B.C. is the treasure land of Canada and destined by the time another census comes around to be cock of the Canadian walk.

Mr. Bennett for one won't cotton to the Maclean's forecast; that much seems certain. It's enough to make him resign forthwith, No?

Napoleon was such a master of the sword it's surprising to learn he has been regarded in literary circles as also a master of words. One English historian even called him the greatest writer of the last century. If bulk tells the tale there seems to be warrant for such assessment. The first of a four-volume selection of his correspondence has recently been published in English, which in total will represent only five per cent of the whole. Some 60-odd volumes of his letters and written documents have been published in France, and this is not all that is available. The wonder grows how men of action like Napoleon ever found time to indulge in such voluminous correspondence.

But perhaps the making is true that it is the busy man who is best able to take on extra chores, and not the person of ample leisure.

The women are going to have their toes turned into triangles, as you may note from the feminine shoe displays in store windows. Last time they had their toes cut off. None of this matters much, I suppose, even if one lrate lady down east says she'll run hot-foot to any store that sells round-toed shoes. Milady can put up with anything if the fashion stylists proclaim that this is "it." More serious is the trend towards pointed male shoes, also noticeable in shop windows. Homo's toes are more delicate and won't stand being reshaped with every passing whim.

Change is the rage and is all very well but surely they can leave the male foot alone. Did any male customer ever ask in advance to have pointed shoes?

A reader asks me why shouldn't the navy have a pipe band or an army wear the kilts. No reason except that, to yours truly anyway, either seems out of place. There's something to be said, I think, for the innovators or the inventors of a special dress or custom to retain the prerogative. There is no law against pipe bands anywhere but in military lore at least there have been associations with particular regiments — they are part of the warp and woof, as it were — and it seems incongruous they should be co-opted by services of a separately distinctive nature.

By the same kind of reasoning, yours truly always thinks a sailor on a bicycle or an admiral on horseback presents an appearance out of context with the uniform he wears. It's a matter of appropriateness.

With the Classics

Tomorrow we meet the same then, dearest? May I take your hand in mine?

Mere friends are we, — well, friends the merest. Keep much that I regret: For each glance of the eye so bright and black,

Though I keep with heart's endeavour, — Your voice, when you wish the snowdrops back, Though it stay in my soul for ever! —

Yet I will but say what mere friends say, Or only a thought stronger: I will hold your hand but as long as all may, On so very little longer!

Divided World

Consequences to Be Faced

By RICHARD LOWENTHAL from Berlin

THE Vienna confrontation between the Soviet and American leaders has been more important and heavy with consequence than was at first believed. Though it has produced neither agreements nor an acute crisis, it has offered the occasion for each side to clarify important aspects of its policy; and this itself has been enough to change the world situation and to create the need for new decisions.

President Kennedy has made clear the extent to which he will continue to approve the Communist advance in the underdeveloped regions of the world. Premier Khrushchev has provided new information on the nature, objectives and time-table of his threat to Berlin. But the most fateful clarification, which came also from the Soviet leader, concerned the prospects of the nuclear club and of any kind of negotiated arms limitation.

Khrushchev not only confirmed that he will not depart from the "troika" principle, (i.e., from his insistence on having any international authority and any organ of arms control directed by a tripartite board subject to Soviet veto), he indicated clearly and definitely that he does not want any kind of inspection of an atomic test ban, or indeed of any other form of partial disarmament, except in the framework of a comprehensive treaty on "general and complete disarmament." And to remove all doubt, he suggested that the separate test negotiations be adjourned as futile, to be merged in the future negotiations.

Pelawau

The Squall Is Over

From the Ottawa Journal

YACHTING is unlikely to be a popular subject of conversation in the Canadian Guards 2nd Battalion for some time to come. Defence Minister Harkness has announced that certain officers have been "disciplined" because they failed to make clear to everyone concerned that membership in the yacht club at Pelawau was not obligatory. When members of the unit told reporters a few months ago that they were being forced to pay fees for the yacht club there was, and properly so, considerable uproar.

The inquiry ordered by the defence minister indicates that no great harm has been done. Soldiers who were misled by unclear instructions, and paid yacht club dues because they thought they had to, are having their money returned. The minister is satisfied that the club boats are not being used exclusively or nearly exclusively by officers.

A bit of publicity, a published suggestion of something wrong, sends the military into more of a flap than an atomic attack. In this case publicity was the best friend of the 2nd Battalion. The published complaints of soldiers led to an inquiry which has cleared the air. Imagine what the embarrassment of the battalion would have been if, months after month, hundreds of guardsmen told their friends and relations under seal of secrecy that they were being forced to help buy yachts, officers for the use of.

On the Soviet plan for such general disarmament. This means that hopes for an agreed limitation of the circle of nuclear powers, to be enforced by an inspected ban on atomic tests, must be finally abandoned. For it turns out that the decisive obstacle to agreement is not the organizational form of the machinery of inspection — whether it should be headed by an independent neutral personality or by a veto-ridden trioka, or whether some new form of limited neutral inspection by the great powers could be devised — but a Soviet refusal to accept any form of inspection so long as there is no binding agreement on total disarmament.

Yet on all sides agree that general and complete disarmament is impossible without an international force, with the power to enforce a veto over the use of that force, "general and complete disarmament" is a mere propaganda slogan known by its sponsors to be unattainable; it is, in fact, a myth.

This rejection of inspection for any form of partial disarmament has not always been the Soviet position. When the Geneva test ban negotiations started in 1958, the Western negotiators felt that the Soviets were genuinely anxious for a positive result, and might well be willing to accept some form of international inspection on their territory at a price, even though they were determined to bargain hard on the details. The change in their attitude must have occurred before it came to the notice of the West, sometime during the year that has elapsed between the abortive Paris summit and the Vienna confrontation; and it seems to have been closely linked with the somewhat stormy course of Soviet-Chinese relations during that year.

Thus the Soviets walked out of the ten-power disarmament negotiations on the day the Bucharest conference of ruling Communist parties ended in Soviet-Chinese deadlock at the end of last June. The next step came when Mr. Khrushchev used the United Nations Assembly both to proclaim the troika principle and to disparage all Western proposals for partial disarmament and arms control. And the new policy had probably taken a definitive step when, on November 23 last, in the middle of the Moscow conference of Communist parties, Pravda published an interview with Mr. Khrushchev.

In this interview the Soviet leader rejected any kind of inspection scheme in a world in which armaments remained as "spionage" likely to increase the danger of surprise attack — in terms that clearly admitted no exception for an inspected test ban. It may well be that by then, the Soviets had finally convinced themselves that they would be unable to get China to accept her permanent exclusion from the nuclear club and the stationing of inspection teams on her territory at any price.

Naturally, the West had been slow to accept the implications of Mr. Khrushchev's earlier statements, because the closing of the nuclear club seemed the most obvious measure in which all the existing nuclear powers had a common interest. But now that the Soviet leader has spelt out his meaning directly to the American president, the consequences have to be faced. The hope of closing the nuclear club is dead; so is the hope of any negotiated agreement on partial disarmament with effective inspection.

This raises a number of new problems for the West. One is whether to resume testing. A second is how to organize the control of nuclear weapons within the Western alliance with minimum cost and maximum safety. A third is whether to reject out of hand all further negotiations on the Soviet proposals for "general and complete disarmament," or — more sensibly — how to bring them quickly to the point at which their incompatibility with a Soviet veto on the use of an international force becomes evident to all. And finally, there is the biggest question of all — whether the failure to agree on inspected disarmament schemes means the resumption of an unlimited arms race.

On this last point, I am not entirely pessimistic. Arms limitations that are in the evident interest of both sides may come about without even a formal treaty, by separate unilateral actions that are mutually understood. There is no hope of that with regard to the progress of arms techniques and of its spread to third parties. But a tacit, informal agreement to limit, say, the number of long-range missile installations on both sides to the needs of "finite deterrence" may still be feasible, just as a ceiling seems already to have been tacitly established for the total size of the armed forces of the leading powers. In these fields, the progress of spy satellites may even in fact permit mutual inspection without formal agreement.

But even informal agreements require some form of permanent contact; they are not as tacit as all that. This may be the most positive aspect of the resumption of Russo-American communications, as distinct from negotiations, at Vienna.

In Southern Rhodesia

Hypocritical Color Bar

By ANDREW WILSON, from Salisbury

BEHIND THE Salisbury sky-scrapers, the hygienic white pride of Southern Rhodesia, run dark narrow passages called "sanitary lanes." Intended to give access to garbage collectors. Racial discrimination has given them another function; for thousands of Africans they must serve on occasion as the only public lavatory.

This minor but distressing situation is typical of Southern Rhodesia's color bar, which, through a conspiracy to pretend that it does not exist, is more hypocritical, and in some ways more cruel, than anything in the Republic of South Africa.

There are hardly any "Europeans Only" notices in Salisbury; instead there are small discreet "Right of Admission Reserved" signs which appear above the door of almost every place of refreshment, entertainment, and pleasure.

An African may enter a cafe to buy a sandwich or a bottle of lemonade; but he may not stay to consume them there, from the same crockery and tables which are used by Europeans. He may enter the majority of shops; but if he buys a hat, or a suit, or a pair of shoes, he may not try them on or, in many cases, even finger the material. Nor may he use the lift.

At certain shops he may not even enter but stand at a small window, attempting to attract the attention of the shop assistant who (if so disposed) will fetch the goods he wants from the counter.

None of Salisbury's smaller hotels is multiracial, and only one of the big ones (which has the contract for managing a government rest-house for distinguished Africans at Lusaka, Northern Rhodesia). An African may lodge and dine there, and under a recent relaxation of the liquor laws may order drinks. But he must be able to prove his qualifications as a voter and face the loud comments which certain Europeans invariably pass on his presence.

One could go on cataloguing instances of the color bar — from the exclusion of non-Europeans from the municipal swimming bath to the refusal of most doctors to treat Africans at their surgeries. Some are defended by an appeal to legislation such as the Land Apportionment Act which prohibits the "use" of European "land" by Africans. Others, like the prohibition of public lavatories to Africans, are enforced by city bylaws. Yet others are practised behind the discriminatory Trepass Act which lays an African open to a charge of trespass the moment he enters any property uninvited, except in search of work.

When the list is finished one marvels: not only at how it can all continue in a colony supposedly governed on principles of racial partnership but also at the curious, irresolute attitude by which it is made us supported.

"If the government made us multiracial tomorrow, I'd serve you," the busy chef of a restaurant owner of the little restaurant tells an African. "I'll then I've got my European customers to think of."

"Of course we're against the color bar," says the liberal member of the governing United Federal Party. "But you cannot eat a thing like that till people are ready for it."

More typical is the attitude

The Packback

Hard To Find

By GREGORY CLARK

IN the radio and TV repair shop attached to one of the big department stores there is a youth employed as messenger and handy boy around the place. It is not as easy as you might think to get good alert intelligent boys to serve at menial tasks any more. If they are obedient they are usually a little slow on the intake. If they are smart, they are often too smart. But this boy was just what the shop wanted except for one failing. He was sometimes a little hard to find. He was around. But where?

You could holler for him. You could look for him. And when he appeared, he always had some perfectly rational explanation of what he had been doing and where he had been.

One of the staff solved the problem. In the midst of one of the usual hollering and shouting occasions, the wise man said:

"Here! Where's that awful rock 'n' roll record that was lying around?"

He put the record on a player that was in for service. Loud.

The boy appeared on the gallop.

Now whenever he is wanted, they just put on a rock 'n' roll.

(Copyright, Canada Wide)

of a young professional man who admits that many educated Africans deserve a fuller life and liberty but asks if one has ever seen "the inside of the average African home."

"Their habits," he adds darkly, alluding to African hygiene, the picture of which has become for so many Europeans an obsession. But has he ever seen it, one wonders? — the painstaking tidiness and cleanliness of so many little township houses of Harare and Highfield behind their dreary exterior. Or is he in his ignorance a greater victim of the color bar than the African?

A few days ago I asked the Southern Rhodesian prime minister, Sir Edgar Whitehead, if he was prepared to condemn all forms of racial discrimination outright and publicly. "Wait till after the referendum on the new constitution," was his answer, perhaps with the thought of the 50 per cent of the electorate who at the last elections voted for the right-wing Dominion Party, pledged for ever against African integration of any kind.

But will events wait for ever for the entrenched proportion, even a majority, of the European population?

As the organizers of the newly launched "Citizens Against the Color Bar" organization point out, Europeans in Southern Rhodesia are faced with one of their last opportunities to exercise the initiative.

If they ignore it, the boot, tomorrow, will be on the other foot.

Coyne Row Blamed For Dollar Decline

By HARRY YOUNG
Columnist Business Editor

The banks in Victoria yesterday were asking their customers to pay a small premium on the exchange of Canadian dollars into U.S. dollars. The rate was one-eighth of a cent on each dollar.

It was only the second time in five years that this has happened, and the cause of the decline in the Canadian dollar was being linked directly to the call for the resignation of Mr. Coyne and the promise of cheaper money and deficit financing in next week's budget.

Before the U.S. dollar had been at a discount without a break since April 1958. During that period the value of the U.S. dollar ranged between 94 cents and par, and for most of this year it has been worth about 90 cents.

Some experts now feel that with Mr. Coyne's resignation influence on the point of removal of the devaluation of the Canadian dollar will continue.

BANK RATE DROPS

The other interesting sequel to the Coyne situation yesterday was an extremely sharp drop in the Bank of Canada discount rate of an indicator of the money supply and strength in the Canadian share and bond markets.

The Bank of Canada discount rate was 2.53 per cent a drop of .45 per cent from the 3.00 per cent of the previous Thursday. This was a new low for the year, and the lowest it has been since Oct. 13, 1950, when it was 2.73 per cent.

The rise in the stock market was chiefly in the leading industrial stocks which investors believe must benefit from the government's expansionist policy hinted at by Mr. Fleming.

Banks Ask Exchange Premium

Particularly strong were the shares of pulp and paper firms most of whose products are sold in the U.S. market and are paid for in U.S. dollars.

Bonds were also in keen demand as the pattern is being set by the government for an era of lower interest rates.

Some Canadian government bonds were selling at their highest in over six months, and brokers expect that the rate will continue until yields are reduced considerably from their current levels.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG (CP) — Grain prices generally showed a firm undertone in moderately active trading. The warm, dry weather affected prices.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat: China 1,640,000 bushels, Russia 500,000 bushels, the United Kingdom 210,000 bushels, small lots to Austria, France, Belgium, Germany and Hong Kong.

CHICAGO (AP) — A rapid retreat in July soybeans took the price down the limit of 10 cents allowed for a single day.

Wheat, corn, soybeans, cotton, and other grain prices were generally firm in the early trading.

Angry Husband Tears Up Wife's $2,800 Wardrobe

LONDON—Benjamin Lipton didn't like the clothes his wife bought so he ripped up $2,800 worth of them.

"Her clothes were fantastic," he told Judge Sir Archie Marshall. "I tore up all those I had not bought her."

"Fantastic or not," said the judge, "a woman is entitled to wear what clothes she likes." The wife, Helga, said she left Lipton and filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty. The judge granted an order for Lipton to enter her apartment or molesting her.

Three Students, One Married Share Four Varsity Prizes

Three Victoria University students, one of them married and with two children, shared the distinction of taking four awards among the prizes announced yesterday by the university.

They were Terence Leung, 1346 Harrison, who led first-year arts students with an average of 93.4 per cent; Anthony Wilken, 3015 Quadra (the married student), who topped second-year arts students with a 92 per cent average; and Susan Dickinson, of Sidney, who stood fourth in the second year, who starred in grass hockey, and who is a student council member.

Barry M. Gelling, 2090 Kings Road, took the high individual prize, the $500 B.C. Centennial Scholarship for scholastic and extra-curricular achievement. A graduating student, he will enter medical school this fall.

Mr. Wilken has just been advised that he has also won a Leonard Foundation scholarship from Toronto of $350, to help him continue his studies at Victoria University next year.

Scholarships this year total $9,680, and will be awarded at the college award day, Oct. 20. A few on the list have still to be selected.

Following is the award-winning list announced yesterday:

Percy H. Elliott Memorial Scholarship, $100, high general academic standing, Howard E. Lim; Royal Institution and Francis Eaton Memorial Scholarship, $50, highest standing in second year English, Anthony G. Wilken; Alliance Française Prize, $50, progress in second year French, Judith A. Richardson; T. Eaton Company Limited Scholarship, $200, high standing in mathematics of the first year, Steven M. ## Quotes Contractors 'Dirty Work' Going On' Says Winch OTTAWA (CP) — CCF MP Harold Winch said Thursday subcontractors across Canada are convinced "some dirty work is going on" in the federal works department in the awarding of contracts.

He was assured by Works Minister Walker that the department feels it has "a fool-proof and honest system."

During Commons debate on the department's 1961-62 spending budget, Mr. Winch said there is a general understanding among subcontractors across the country that there is under the Conservative government "a selected list in every province" of contractors.

Radars Traps Busy

Radars traps for speeders in RCMP territory near Victoria have checked 132 drivers within the last 10 days.

Of these, police said, 47 have been issued with summonses for speeding, and the other 85 merely warned, because a margin for error is allowed in radar speed checks.

The radar has been operating in the Colwood, Langford, Malahat and Sidney areas.

Interest Cut Urged On NHA Mortgages

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal housing critic J. R. Garland called in the Commons Thursday for a reduction in the 6 per cent interest rate on National Housing Act mortgages which he said is placing "a tremendous burden" on home owners.

He also urged the government to make NHA mortgages available for purchases of "older type" homes and to lower the two-per-cent mortgage fee.

HOPE SEEN
Mr. Garland, member for Nipissing, saw hope for a decline in the NHA lending rate in the government's "change of heart" an economic policy — an obvious reference to Finance Minister Fleming's hint yesterday of expansionist lines in Tuesday night's budget.

The Liberal MP got little encouragement from works minister Walker who noted that the NHA rate is pegged by law to a maximum of 2½ per cent above the yield on long-term government bonds.

Defence News Clam-Up Probe Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, said yesterday the CBC-TV Montreal does not broadcast defence news because it is owned by the Canadian Marconi Company, a company bidding for government defence orders.

Census

$100 Fine Expected By Holdout

WINFIELD, B.C. (CP)—Poultry farmer Alex Beasley said Thursday he expects to be summoned to court and probably fined for holding out on the census taker.

He refused to answer questions when the district census taker called earlier in the week. Wednesday he got a visit from Ken Keating, regional organizer for the Dominion bureau of statistics, who came all the way from Vancouver to this Okanagan community to see him.

An RCMP officer sat in on the interview. But Farmer Beasley, veteran of one-man battles against party politics and the like, still held out. "He tried his best but he hadn't any argument," Beasley said Thursday.

Beasley, believed to be the only census holdout in Canada, has said he is willing to pay the expected $100 fine for refusal to answer census questions.

PENTICTON (CP)—Four men appeared in police court here Thursday on charges ranging from assault to intoxication, following a Wednesday fracas at the clubrooms of the Royal Canadian Legion here.

One club official was injured during the fight and another had his jacket ripped from his back.

Canada Takes Step Towards Satellite

WALLOPS ISLAND Va. (CP)—Canada has taken a major step toward successful completion of its first satellite with the space testing of the unique model of the satellite's antenna, longest in the Western world.

Fired into space Wednesday night in the nose cone of a four-stage United States Javelin rocket, the 82-pound Canadian payload consisted mainly of two rolled steel tapes that unfurled on radio command.

stiffened into a semi-tubular shape and extended a distance of 75 feet on each side of the instrumented package.

All this time the payload, shot 561 miles above the earth, was spinning at a speed of up to 650 revolutions a minute.

This experiment was necessary because the Canadian satellite to be shot into space from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., early next year, will be stabilized in space by a spinning technique.

The satellite, a joint Canadian-U.S. project, will investigate the upper layers of the ionosphere. The rocket will be American; the satellite Canadian.

Unknown Pro Bob Brue Gets Jump in U.S. Open

By OSCAR FRALEY
BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (UPI)—Little Bobby Brue, an unknown from Milwaukee, was the only sub par round with a 35-34—69 Thursday to grab a one-shot lead in the first round of the U.S. Open golf championship.

Brue, the chief product of "Bob Brue Backers Inc."—a group of 70 whose $5,500 investment is down to a meager $2,000—clubbed his way to snatch the lead away from unpredictable Tommy Bolt and handsome Bob Goaly.

Goaly, the black-haired Illinois who blows hot and cold, had held the lead for almost six hours as 150 of the world's finest shotmakers set out on the first leg of this journey after America's greatest fairway prize.

BOLT SLIPPED
But his 35-35—70 was surpassed by Brue's 69 and matched by Bolt's 34-36—70 as the thunder man strutted home through the winds with a disappointing finish. Bolt had the lead in his hands, being three under par after 12 holes but then slipped as most of the others had on those unrelenting closing holes.

Thus, as the first round ended, it was the bespectacled unknown with the crew cut on the head end, followed by two of the most successful of the golfing tourists and a host bunched behind them as they took aim on today's second round after which only the low 50 and ties qualify for Saturday's two closing rounds.

HOGAN CLOSE
Leading those in good striking position with one over par 71s was Bantam Ben Hogan, seeking a record fifth triumph in the classic, Slamm! Sammy Snead, four times second but never a winner, was in the hole at 73 after recovering from a faulty start and defending champion Arnold Palmer was back with those at 74 after suffering putting miseries.

Jammed with Hogan among the pursuers with 71 were long-hitting Paul Harney, British Open champion Kei Nagie, former collegiate champion Rex Baxter, veteran Marty Furgol, Aussie Bruce Champion and young Al Geiberger, the human one iron from Southern California.

At 72 the pack included Doug Sanders of the abbreviated backswing, Dick Whetzel, the tiny Texan from Pikeville, Md.; Larry Mowry, a one-time Rhode Island basketball player and former P.G.A. champions Doug Ford, Dow Finsterwald and Bob Rosburg.

The mob at 73 held such as former champion Jack Fleck, long-promising Gene Littler, Frank Stranahan, former P.G.A. champion Lionel Hebert, Billy Maxwell, Mike Souchak and Snead.

With Palmer at 74—five shots behind the startling leader—were former winners Julius Boros, Billy Casper and Cary Middlecoff, along with U.S. amateur champion Deane Beman and veterans Dutch Harrison and Pete Cooper.

They went back fast from there: Former champions Dick Mayer and Lew Worsham as well as amateur hopeful Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Gary Player at 75, Jim Turnesa at 76; Wally Burkemo at 77 and four-time British Open champion Peter Thomson at 78.

ELEVEN PARS
Brue, a former University of Miami player who majored in finance and sagely set up his backing "corporation," started with 11 straight pars. He birdied the 12th by putting his five iron second three feet from the pin. He lost that stroke when he bogeyed the 14th driving the rough. But on the 16th he canned a 16-footer for a birdie and finished up with two pars for his 69. He had 10 one-putt greens, five on each nine.

Bolt, as usual, had his trouble.

THREE-PUTTED
Tommy was three under par going to the 14th hole where he three-putted from 40 feet, missing a two and one-half footer. A man in the gallery shouted:

"You shmoe, you!"

Tommy spun around and said:

"If I was as big as Joe Louis, I'd take care of you."

Obviously upset, he finished up with a bogey on 17 because of a bunkered tee shot and a bogey on the 18th where he was short with his approach.

Snead, long an open-handed, laid, seemed destined to run himself right out of the competition in the first round and growled "I never was worse" as he toured the par 35 front nine in 38 fat blows.

Victoria No Barrier In League Title Trip

Shows caught New Westminster napping during a player change and got a clean breakaway for his second goal.

A minute later John Hanson made it 8-4, but Charlie Saunders scored unassisted and Billy Jobb put New Westminster out of reach.

Don Sepka scored twice and Saunders, Jobb, Jack Barclay, Cliff Sepka, Doug McRory, Mike Gates, Gord Stidolph and Bill Wilkes got the others.

HAD TROUBLE
Victoria again had trouble with the goaltending of Les Norman, who stopped several ticked shots early in the game. Still without the services of injured goalie Gordie Johnston, Vics used Chummy Crabbe, Dave Unwin, who starred as a substitute in Victoria Wednesday when Vics lost, 9-7, was unable to make the trip.

Victoria left New Westminster 11 points ahead of second-place Vancouver, which plays at Nanaimo Saturday. Victoria trails Nanaimo by seven points, and the up-island club has a game in hand.

Yankees in Front As Tribe Beaten

They've only got .005 percentage points to play with, but New York Yankees are in first place in the American League today thanks to the pitching of Ralph Terry and Bill Monbouquette.

Terry ran his record to 5-0 by scattering seven hits as the Yanks beat Cleveland Indians, 10-1, in 11 innings. A bloop single by pinch-hitter John Blanchard drove in the winner after relief pitcher Frank Funk walked Bob Cerv, who promptly stole second.

Yanks got their other two

Monbouquette did his part for the Yankee cause at Detroit, where he held the Tigers to four hits as they took a 10-1 pasting from Boston Red Sox to drop to a second-place tie with the Indians.

In getting his sixth victory, Monbouquette set down 16 Tigers in a row at one stage and beat out bunts safely in three of Boston's scoring rallies. Biggest Boston blow was a grand-slam homer by ex-Tiger Vic Wertz.

SEVEN STRAIGHT
Chicago White Sox scored three unearned runs in the eighth inning to beat Los Angeles Angels, 3-2, and stretch their winning streak to seven games. In other games Washington tied Baltimore for fourth place with a 5-2 win over the Orioles, and Minnesota beat Kansas City, 4-3.

Los Angeles Dodgers clung grimly to their half-game lead in the National League, beating Chicago Cubs, 6-3, on a 12th-inning, three-run homer by rookie Tommy Davis. All three runs were unearned, the homer coming after Charlie Neal was safe on an error and Willie Davis was hit by a pitch from reliever Barney Schultz.

BONUS BABY BEATEN
San Francisco Giants won their fourth straight, climbing on $100,000 bonus baby Tony Cloninger for six runs in five innings while beating Milwaukee Braves, 6-3.

Joey Jay won his eighth for Cincinnati Reds, keeping them in the thick of the race with an 8-1 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates with an eight-hitter. Wally Post's seventh-inning homer was unnecessary, as Reds got to starter Wilmer Mizell for four runs in the first inning.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

O.C. Soccer Stars Play in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Toronto City of the Eastern Professional Soccer League will play an exhibition game against a British Columbia all-star team here June 30.

Dave Fryatt, chairman of the B.C. Soccer Commission, announced Thursday that the Toronto team will make the trip here on a 50-50 promotion basis, "the best deal we've ever had."

Toronto City is composed entirely of British professional stars on loan for the summer season and includes such name players as Stanley Matthews, Danny Blanchflower and Johnny Haynes.

Connie Mack Star Lasts Seven Innings

Park, but his own wildness sent him to the showers.

Hemming gave up only three hits and struck out seven in the first seven innings. But in the eighth he walked four batters. Keith Todd took over and walked two more, but the Hotelmen's rally ended one run short and the game was called at the end of the inning.

In the top of the eighth, Vets had scored three runs themselves on an error, a walk, and singles by George Graham, Tom Bourne and Mike Hodge.

Naval Vets 6, Hotelmen 3.
Douglass Hotel 3, Hotelmen 3.
Grant Udy (6) and Barry Cosier; Dave Murdoch, Des Moseley (7) and Bob Lumley.

Centuries Not Enough Against Leicestershire

LEICESTER, England (Reuters)—The Australian cricketers failed to reap the full benefit of a third-wicket stand of 183 by Colin McDonald and Peter Burge, both of whom scored centuries, against Leicestershire on the second day of their match Thursday.

Facing a score of 239, the Australians passed the Leicestershire total with eight wickets standing, but could establish a lead of only 117—a much smaller advantage than had seemed likely.

At the close, Leicestershire was 81 for two wickets in its second innings.

McDonald, who scored 105, and Burge, 137, took the total from the overnight score of 59 for two to 242 in just under three hours before being separated.

Student Stars Honored

It was a big day for athletic stars Wednesday as Victoria and Esquimalt high schools held their annual "awards day" ceremonies.

Perhaps the most coveted award at Vic High went to Bob Harris, who received the Leader Cup as the student who best combined academic, athletic and leadership qualities and played an outstanding part in school activities during the school year.

Alpha Hi-Y Trophies—for the boy and girl students judged to have best combined wide and excellent participation in sports with leadership and sportsmanship—went to John McKeachie and Barbara Welsh.

Vic High's W. A. Roper Trophy was awarded to Bob Vosburgh for his all-around athletic excellence and consistent example of sportsmanship.

Bruce Mitchell was the big winner at Esquimalt. Mitchell, who was selected to receive the Citizenship Cup, also received the award as the outstanding boy athlete.

Helen Painton was honored as the top athlete among girl students at Esquimalt.

Marilyn Laurie and Barry Scott shared the sportsmanship award, and Gwen Nelson was selected as the Esquimalt student who best combined sportsmanship with all-around ability in athletics.

Open Tennis OK in U.K.

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—The British Lawn Tennis Association announced Thursday night it will support the idea of ending the distinction between amateurs and professionals.

Foul Bay Decisions Nanaimo

The mainland club, starting early in the second quarter, rapped in eight goals without a reply. Vics didn't score again until the fourth quarter when

A total of 65 minutes in penalties—37 to Nanaimo, 28 to Tugmen, was handed out.

Mel Davison, with three goals, Bill Bamford and Ed Kowalyk with two each, and Gary Anderson and Reg Lott handled Tugmen's scoring. Bob Shires, Lloyd Sherry and Mike Gallaway got the other Nanaimo goals.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Saanich Inlet fishing at the moment is as good as it was at any time last year. That is the word given to us yesterday by veteran Brentwood guide Jim Gilbert who said the boat average of two or three fish to the boat is the best so far this year. He said there are fish anywhere from Goldstream to Deep Cove. Coles Bay fish have shown that is where the best fishing has been this week.

On Tuesday Mervyn Campbell got a 16½-pounder, a 14½-pounder, a 9-pounder, and a 6-pounder, all from Indian Bay, just around the corner from Coles Bay. He was using strip-teaser, 300 feet of wire line and a planer.

Gilbert has found dodger and minnow the most productive lure. McKenzie Bay has been giving up plenty of fish, but they have mostly been in the two and three-pound jack-spring class.

Saanich Inlet on Sunday will be scene of the annual Jaycee fishfest, with Joe Kampman in charge.

Becher Bay has been hot spot for the heavyweight spring salmon, with the odd one being caught elsewhere along the Victoria waterfront. Stan Smith got a 10½-pounder at Harling Point. Brian Ingles reports that lots of big salmon have been rolling at Oak Bay but they have been hard to catch.

Blueback fishing is still good in almost all mid-island waters. Alex Ingram and Eric Charman had little difficulty getting their two-day limit off the flats, off Gabriola Island, at the weekend. Bill Broadfoot limited Tuesday at Claytons and we brought in six, up to 4½ pounds, fishing Tuesday at Claytons with Peter Bruton.

Dolly Gorick says Qualicum Beach fishing has been spotty, but the fish are there if you can find them. There have been lots of fish in the middle of the strait, then at the change of tide they have been close in. In the afternoons they have got them off Eagle Crest, and then in the evenings they have been getting them off French Creek. A week ago there was a run of big springs, right off where the boats are moored, but they appear to have moved on.

Don Lumb says Qualicum Bay has been spotty, but spring and blues are being caught in fair numbers off Deep Bay.

Ted Smitheringale of Painters Lodge, where King fisherman winners will be hosted this weekend, says coho fishing off Cape Mudge has been very good with fish taking almost anything from bucktail fly to Lucky Louie plugs. Walter Kropp of Albany, Ore., landed a 12-pound coho to capture King fisherman lead.

Trout fishing continues pretty good everywhere. Big news for Victoria anglers is that Glinz Lake in Sooke, stocked with rainbow trout, reopens for fishing today.

The fly fishing at the top end of Little Qualicum River and right at the mouth in Cameron Lake continues fairly good, with plenty of browns, small cutthroats, and rainbows about eight to nine inches, with the odd bigger one being landed.

Loveland Lake has been hot for fly fishing on the black gnat or royal coachman fly, trolled on the left side of the lake, opposite the campsite. McCreight Lake and Stella Lakes in the Sayward forest area are reported good and Roberts Lake and Middle Quinsam are reported fair.

Puntledge River is fair. Comox Lake has been good with deep trolled gang troll. Cougar Lake has been good and Regan Lake has been excellent for both fly and troll.

In the Alberni best bet for fly-fishermen is the Little Qualicum, for trollers anywhere on Sprout Lake for five to six-pound cutthroats, and the Stamp River has a fresh run of silvery seven to eight-pound summer steelheads.

Nahmint River is full of summer steelhead according to Art Green who landed four at the weekend.

Quennell Lake has been fair for bass fishermen. Stan McCarthy, his son Don, and Norm Thompson found terrific fishing at the weekend in the fourth Nanaimo Lake, but the fish were smallish and most were spawners. They found fly, the Lühr Jensen 88 best lures. They said they must have hooked a hundred fish.

Cowichan Lake is still giving good trout fishing for the big fellows. Cowichan River is fair. Dougans, Fuller, Somenos and Quamichan Lakes are all fair. In the Victoria area all lakes are reported fair.

Queen's Plate Prize for Longden?

Johnny Longden, the world's winningest jockey, goes after one of the few racing trophies that has eluded him Saturday, and his mere presence in the saddle have shortened the odds on Just Don't Shove in the 102nd running of the Queen's Plate at New Woodbine.

"This is the one I'd like to win," said the 54-year-old jockey, who has been to the winners' circle more than 5,400 times. His presence will likely make the bargain-basement colt, picked up by Conn Smythe for $2,200 as a weanling at auction, the crowd favorite.

Betting favorite in the 13-horse field for the $50,000-added race will likely be Rambling Wreck—if jockey Avellino Gomez can keep the $3,500 claimer looking straight ahead. The Wreck tends to lug into the left, and he'll be wearing a special extended blinker Saturday. (Channels 2 and 6, at 2:30 p.m.)

TWO DEALS, both outright purchases, took place in the major baseball leagues Thursday. Pittsburgh Pirates bought outfielder Walt (Moose) Moryn from St. Louis Cardinals and Milwaukee Braves acquired catcher Sammy White from Boston Red Sox. White has been on the retired list since last season after refusing to report to Cleveland in a trade for Russ Nixon.

Defending champion Joe Carr of Ireland and American Ralph Morrow reached the fifth round of the British Amateur golf championships yesterday, both on easy victories. Rod Laver, Australian tennis star, says he will turn professional if he wins the Wimbledon title. Davis Cup teammate Neale Fraser, Wimbledon winner last year, says he will retire at the end of this year. Britain opened a 2-0 lead over South Africa in quarter-finals of the European zone Davis Cup yesterday.

GALT TERRIERS, Allan Cup champions, will represent Canada in the 1962 world hockey championships at Colorado Springs, Colo., according to an announcement from the CAHA. Calgary Stampeder have signed tackle Ted Forest, who was obtained last year from Montreal Alouettes.

Soccer Rebels Suffer Big Setback Club Owners Reject Transfer Clause

LONDON (Special) — England's football league clubs have dug in their heels in a desperate last-ditch stand to protect an age-old system against a rising wave of revolution among the nation's disgruntled players.

In a move resulting directly from the Jimmy Greaves "affair" and the threat of a large-scale migration of top British players to other football-playing lands, club owners have thrown out the key clause in an agreement reached with the players' union.

The club lords thus rejected the principle that a player has a right to demand a transfer—a principle backed by the league management committee—in the seven-point agreement reached after 10 months of negotiation.

MOCKERY, FARCE

League secretary Alan Hardaker said if the players did not accept the league's amendments to the controversial transfer clause, "we are back where we started." He added: "This is as far as the league is prepared to go. Otherwise it is a mockery and farce of the league competition."

Jimmy Hill, leader of the players' union and a victim of his own efforts to obtain a big wage increase—he was cut by Fulham—almost immediately flew in from eastern Canada where he was playing summer football.

FIGHT RESUMES

The bearded Hill accused the clubs of "dishonoring the agreement" as he prepared to resume the fight at Whitehall with government labor officials and league brass.

But the clubs went much further in their fight to retain supreme command of a system that is slowly disintegrating and facing total collapse. They admitted to facing serious problems but confined any moves to solve them with a terse announcement that "much serious thinking must be done."

Then they threw out a plan to televise 21 matches next season after hearing a gloomy fan attendance report disclosing an estimated loss of 4,000,000 spectators in the last campaign.

BIGGEST DROP

The biggest drop was recorded in the first division, an average of more than 3,000 fans for each match. The second division lost almost 3,000 spectators a match and the third division about 1,500 a match.

Only the fourth division came close to breaking even with an estimated loss of only 200 fans a match—a figure no doubt helped by Peterborough's sensational debut in league football.

SOLID CLAIMS

Despite the Peterborough lesson, the club chiefs decided to re-elect the four clubs which finished at the bottom of the division—Barrow, Chester, Exeter and Hartlepool. They passed over Oxford United, which had solid claims for admission as winner of the strong Southern League.

Oxford, managed by Arthur Turner, had made elaborate plans in anticipation of gaining a spot in the fourth division and had far better support last season than any of the teams re-elected. But, like Peterborough, Oxford will probably have a long wait before breaking through.

DRAMATIC TURN

Shortly before the league brass met for their annual meeting, the Greaves affair took a new and dramatic turn and all but clinched a tougher line against freedom of transfer.

Greaves, Chelsea's undecided scoring star, changed his mind for a second time and decided to join Milan after a long talk with officials of the Italian club. There is no doubt that Greaves gave in to the lure of the lira although no increased salary was announced.

But the "affair" was far from over and how shows signs of blowing up into a first-class international football row. Greaves joined his club for an exhibition match against Botofoga of Brazil against the orders of Chelsea and the English Football Association.

Chelsea, backed by the association, ordered Greaves not to play because it had not received the full payment of the estimated 200,000 transfer fee. Milan countered that the money was waiting in an Italian bank for clearance by government treasury officials.

SOME COMPLAINTS

Chelsea and the Football Association both have sent protests to the International Football Association Federation and some Italian clubs have complained about the method of transfer involving foreign players. Sparks are expected to fly when the matter comes before the ruling body of world football in the next few weeks.

But Greaves was not sorry he defied English authority.

He left his native land somewhat of a villain but was soon a hero in the eyes of Italy's critical football fans and the press.

His debut for Milan was nothing short of sensational. He showed some of his best England form and scored the tying goal to a great wave of cheering from the excited Italians, who only several weeks ago had watched the same player wreck Italy's chances for a draw against England.

Greaves' move to Italy was followed shortly after by Denis Law, the fiery Scottish International bought by Manchester City for a whopping price near the end of the 1959-60 season in an attempt to save relegation.

Law, who has been in and out of trouble with City officials ever since, had made his intentions clear that he did not want to return to Manchester. His signing with Turin will leave City back where it started but with a fat transfer fee in the bank.

Palmer, Player in Open

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—South African Gary Player and Arnold Palmer of the United States have entered the British Open golf tournament. The British Open begins July 10.

Garden Notes

First Aid for Trees

By M.V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The conifers or cone-bearing evergreen trees are deservedly popular as specimens for the front lawn, for not only are they good to look at all year round but also they are somewhat less prone to come down with a bad attack of bugs or blight. Nevertheless, even these comparatively trouble-free subjects need a bit of attention from time to time.

One fairly common disability in many coniferous lawn trees is a tendency for the upper growing tip to divide into two tips. This is usually the result of some injury to the tip, either mechanical or from bugs, and the tree's reaction is exactly the same as when you pinch the growing tip off a geranium or snapdragon—it branches, making two tips instead of one.

If you let the trees get away with this, the whole shape will be ruined—you'll have a forked tree and it will never again be a shapely symmetrical specimen. If you find two shoots competing for leadership, therefore, don't hesitate to cut off the weaker one of the two, taking it off at its first point of origin and leaving the stronger tip in undisputed possession of the top of the tree.

Chances are this new tip will be canted out at an angle rather than pointing straight up, due to the competition of the removed second tip. It will straighten itself up in time but you may have an unsightly kink in your tree as the shoot changes its direction of growth from horizontal to vertical. I think it is a good idea to rig a simple splint—a stout, straight stick lashed to the trunk—and pull the erring tip in gradually with ties of some soft material until it is trained to point straight up.

During a hot dry spell, your evergreens may lose some of their good green color and take on a sickly grey shade. This dry, unhealthy appearance is not due to drought but is caused by an infestation of red spider mites. These sap-suckers are too tiny to be seen easily without a glass but, if you can find traces of a very fine web on the stems and needles, you can be pretty sure the trouble is mites.

I have never suffered from spider mite on my junipers, spruces and cypresses, although I have seen heavy and disastrous infestations in my immediate neighborhood. I believe my freedom from this pest is due to a habit I have formed of washing down the foliage with a very strong stream of water every time I have the hose out.

Whether this knocks the bugs out of my trees or whether the dampness is ungenial to the mites I wouldn't know, but certainly the evergreens thrive under this treatment.

While plain water can prevent a mite attack, I doubt if it would clean up an infestation once the pest was dug in and thoroughly established. Malathion will kill adult mites but not the eggs, and I wouldn't hesitate to use it if I had nothing better. Trouble is, malathion is effective against a very wide range of insects, knocking off friendly and useful bugs as well as the pests, and the killing of predators can have an unhappy end result in the garden.

If you can get Aramite, you can deal destruction against your mites without worrying about the aphid-eating ladybird beetles and other predators, for this preparation is highly specific in its action. For best results, spray three times 10 days apart to catch the generations of mites emerging from the egg stage.

'Co-Existence' Can Be Fun

I've always felt the world needed some device to quick freeze children so they could be transported painlessly from here to there, conceivably in the baggage department. However, alas, it's not likely to come to pass in our lifetime. The alternative is to learn how to enjoy travelling with children. Many people do, curious as that seems.

Viola Weingarten voyaged to Europe and back in 1959 with her two daughters, ages 16 and 13, abetted by her husband and lived to write a book about it, called "You Can Take Them With You."

The other day, the 13-year-old was asked what she had especially liked about the trip. "I liked the water, the islands, and the sky," said Kathy. "But I did get lonely for kids my own age."

Taken slightly aback by her daughter's candor, Mrs. Weingarten confessed: "Kathy was sort of dragged around—let's face it. Still, these trips have great value, she thinks, because parents get to know their children better than they ever have before."

"We found out the more positive side of our children. We found out Kathy knows much more than we thought she did and we found out Jan had a great sense of humor. Who spends 28 days with their children—day and night? At first you are a little insecure with each other. You think—what will we talk about? Suddenly you're putting down your roots as a group and not as individuals. I feel that the trip did more for us as a family group than anything we've ever done. We all adjusted to each other. "It was the first time," Kathy chimed in, "you thought of the other person conscientiously."

Mrs. Weingarten took over: "It's very different travelling with children, and without them. On one unfortunate boat ride, when we found ourselves stuck in the middle of the water at night, we wondered why we had brought the children. But that was the only time we regretted it. You get more out of going with children because you are double. You see things from an adult's point of view—and from a child's. Now, when I remember a throne in one of the ruins in Greece, I remember Kathy sitting in it, sitting very straight and proud. My memories are populated with my kids."

"Canines was just like Atlantic City," Kathy interjected. "Venice was the first place in Europe that didn't seem like it was ten minutes from home (which is Pleasantville, New York)."

Mrs. Weingarten thought that 16 was the limit when parents should accompany children on their travels. "After that," said Kathy, "it's embarrassing."

"The children should get away from their parents," said Mrs. Weingarten positively. "And learn to be independent. Something is wrong with a kid of 16 who wants to travel with you. But up until that age co-existence is possible."

Sweet Future Faces Paul

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Paul Newman, having paid off Warner Brothers the $500,000 they charged for his freedom, is set to make a fortune on his own. His Metro deal is sweet for "Sweet Bird of Youth"—14 per cent of the box-office gross, which his advisers tell him will spell out $1,200,000. Or thereabouts. Paul, wife Joanne and their small daughter are staying at a hotel until they find a house to buy. The new baby is expected in two months, and everything is coming up roses.

Back to Die

Blind Bishop Welcomes The Vaniers

PORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP) —A blind, bearded Arctic bishop, home from France to die, greeted Governor-General and Madame Vanier Thursday as the viceregal tour swung into the Northwest Territories. The Vaniers arrived here Wednesday night from Uranium City, Sask., and retired immediately to a six-room cottage which the wives of RCMP personnel had prepared after ransacking this northern centre.

Their first visit Thursday was St. Joseph's Cathedral where they went for tea in the parish hall. Outside, his long white beard fluttering across his chest, stood Roman Catholic Bishop Pierre Fallaize in his red robes. He stood with a group of priests and brothers, many still wearing the long beards of their Arctic missionary days.

Blindness came to stay in 1939. Eye specialists blamed radiation poisoning. In 1952, he went home to France.

Governor-General Vanier, after talking with Bishop Fallaize, turned to reporters: "Bishop Fallaize went back home to France, but he came back again to die. I think it's rather wonderful."

career-wise, family-wise, and financially for the Newman.

Greer Garson and husband Buddy Fogelson are off to England—Greer's first visit there since 1953, and stand-up wit Mort Sahl is making his first visit to Paris, after his current Basin Street East engagement in New York. To work. I hope the French will get the point of his razor-sharp comments.

Whatever happened to David O. Sehnick's plan for the Broadway musical of "Gone with the Wind"? David owns the stage rights. . . and Phillip Barry Jr. tells me there is a plan afoot to make a musical of his late father's hit play, "Holiday," which starred Katharine Hepburn in the movie. I'd like to see Katie in another film.

Mickey Rooney has a date for a movie with Blake Edwards. The Mick has to keep working to support his five children and to provide alimony for his ex-wives.

Harvard graduate Peter Mann who plays the young lead in Frank Capra's "Pocketful of Miracles" was praised for his realistic love scene with the leading lady, Ann-Margaret. "I'm glad you closed your eyes," said Capra, adding, "most young actors are so camera-hungry they keep their eyes open and lose the feeling of a love scene. "I was taught never to kiss in public," explained Peter, "and I closed my eyes because I was so embarrassed, with all the people watching."

I have been enjoying Irving Stone's best-seller, "The Agony and the Ecstasy." What a wonderful movie this would make, with locations in all the art treasure houses of Florence and Rome. The question is, who can play Michelangelo convincingly? Offhand, I can't name anyone. But Eva Marie Saint or Hope Lange would be good as the contessina. And Lee J. Cobb for Michelangelo's father.

Canada's daily and weekly newspapers "excellent though most of them be," did not provide "an effective counterbalance to the unceasing Canadian exposure to the vast and penetrating American apparatus of communications."

Canadian magazines did not receive comparable exposure on Canadian newsstands as American publications. As a result they had to resort to cut-rate subscription methods to counter-balance the better appearance and editorial quality of their prosperous U.S. counterparts.

The commission said it is becoming more and more difficult for Canadian writers of fiction and articles to find paying outlets in Canada.

"A professional freelance writer cannot live on the proceeds of writing only for Canadian periodicals," it declared.

One Performance

One of Russia's three most famous groups of performers, the Red Army Chorus, dancers and orchestra, will appear in Memorial Arena in Victoria for one performance Aug. 14.

Nicholas Goldschmidt, artistic and general director of the festival, made the announcement in Victoria yesterday, explaining it as an initial move in an effort by the Festival to take its offerings to the people of B.C.

BROADEN SCOPE
"We intend," he said, "to broaden the scope of the festival in the knowledge that not everyone can afford to come to Vancouver to see the fine performers who appear there."

Expansion Hope

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's magazine industry yesterday welcomed the O'Leary royal commission report as an "excellent" document.

"This report should create a climate in which new Canadian magazines can be started," Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company president Floyd S. Chalmers said.

"We'll probably lose $1,000,000 this year on the five magazines we publish now," he said. "We'll be very happy just to reduce this."

"The commission has done a wonderful job," said C. J. Laurin, president of the Canadian Periodical Press Association. "I'd say the chances of the government implementing these recommendations are excellent."

"It's not anti anybody," he said. "But it should do a great deal to encourage spending of Canadian advertising dollars in Canadian periodicals, and that's the root of the present problem."

Doors at City Hall Close at 4.30 P.M.

Doors of Victoria's City Hall closed at 4.30 p.m. for the first time yesterday as a result of a compromise settlement reached with the city's 160 inside workers a few weeks ago.

The summer hours, from 8.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., will remain in effect until Sept. 15 when the city hall will again stay open until 5 p.m.

Council accepted the half-hour shorter day from June 15 to Sept. 15 after rejecting a conciliation award which would have seen the summer hours in force for five months each year.

Cat Rationing Issue Revived

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said yesterday on the heels of a new complaint to City Hall that he will renew his appeal to council for a bylaw limiting to three the number of cats allowed in a household.

Last major effort to secure a compulsory cat limit came nearly four years ago when council defeated it by a one-vote margin.

Ald. Mooney, who spearheaded the last cat-rationing measure, said he is prepared to spearhead another.

Yesterday's complaint to City Hall named the same address which sparked the 1957 cat curtailment bid.

A neighbor, Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes, 1721 Duchess Street, said that on the evening she wrote the latest letter there were 16 cats in the front yard of the offending property.

Referring to the 1957 affair, she wrote, "I am not interested in starting the same stupid controversy with the Cats Protection League. I am strictly interested in my own family's welfare and I do think humans should take a little precedence over cats."

She said she and her husband were forced to burn cardboard cartons full of cat manure deposited on their property.

Galiano Fishing Trip Ends Up in Victoria

A father and son who started off on a fishing trip from Galiano Island yesterday, finished up in Victoria, their swamped boat, abandoned when the engine failed.

Ed Ketchum, of Galiano Island, and his son, C. M. Ketchum, of Philadelphia, were fishing from their 16-foot clinker-built boat off East Point, Saturna Island, when the engine conked out.

Attempting to get it going again the spark plug threads were stripped and the boat drifted helplessly in a rip tide.

Their predicament was spotted by the German freighter Cap Domingo which made an unsuccessful attempt to take them in tow.

The disgruntled fishermen were taken aboard the freighter and deposited at B.C. Pilotage office on Dallas Road.

A search vessel was sent out from Canoe Cove to try and locate the swamped craft which contained some valuable gear.

July 3 Holiday Unlikely

Greater Victoria's civic staffs will get no July 1 holiday this year if municipal councils adopt the recommendation of the intermunicipal committee.

Advised yesterday by Victoria City Manager C. C. Wyatt that the practice has been to follow the procedure of the provincial government each year, the committee ruled that Monday, July 3, will not be made a civic holiday in order to compensate for July 1 being on a Saturday.

Esquimalt Councillor G. K. Sammon told the committee that the federal government had also notified civil servants there would be no compensating holiday.

Body Pulled From Water

Body of an elderly man was pulled from the water off Dallas Road below Beacon Hill Park during noon hour yesterday.

Identified by police as John Hodze, 77, Westholme Hotel, he is believed to have suffered a heart attack and fallen into the water.

Converted Bus

Luxury on Wheels!

A 42-passenger bus converted into a luxury land cruiser for 11 passengers passed through Victoria yesterday on a tour of Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland.

The vehicle, owned by Dr. J. C. Lockhart and A. G. Heidrich of Peoria, Ill., is fitted with ship-style bunks, collapsible beds, baths, showers, a living room, kitchen, two toilets, and an electric power plant.

Dr. Lockhart said "our vehicle is just what the doctor ordered for touring the country in comfort."

Since the bus was bought and converted in 1959, the two families, including seven children, have travelled thousands of miles.

Dr. Lockhart and his brother-in-law Mr. Heidrich take turns at the wheel, "and often travel 500 miles a day."

Their savings on motel bills are expected to pay for the initial outlay for the bus and conversion.

They plan an extended tour of Vancouver Island, then a trip across the interior of B.C. to Banff and Lake Louise, before returning home.

Starting Date Set For Sewer Project

The $1,200,000 Saanich sewer project to serve the Shelbourne-Gordon Head area should be rolling in high gear by the first week in July, municipal engineer Neville Liff said last night.

The engineer was commenting on the announcement of a federal loan of $382,533 to help with construction of the municipality's new sewage treatment project. The loan is repayable in 20 years at an annual interest rate of 5% per cent.

Under the terms of the federal aid plan for sewer projects, Ottawa will make an outright grant of 25 per cent of the amount of the loan if all work is completed by March, 1963.

Municipal officials are confident the job will be done in time to collect the grant which in the case of Saanich will amount to about $95,000.

To date, under the winter works program, about $150,000 worth of work has already been done.

Big, New Parking Plan To Be Presented Today

Two Buildings, Stores Space for 600 Cars

By TERRY HAMMOND

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney today will present to Mayor Percy Scurrell a proposal for more than $1,000,000 worth of downtown parking facilities completely financed by private capital.

Bare details of the plan were outlined by Ald. Mooney late yesterday as he emerged from a 90-minute conference with principals involved in the deal.

"I think this may be the solution which we have been looking for and I will urge Mayor Scurrell to take early steps to check the bona fides of the proposal so that it can be presented to city council," he said.

He told the Colonist the proposal is still in the tentative stage and that until it is more definite the city should not lose sight of the 600-car, $1,000,000 lease purchase off-street parking scheme which council has been studying for the past three weeks.

MEAN BUSINESS

"But these people seem to mean business and they are represented in Victoria by P. R. Brown and Sons, a long-established and reputable Victoria firm," he added.

The proposal involves construction of two parking buildings with a capacity for 800 cars, several stores at ground level and possibly a rooftop helipad.

He said the scheme has been brought forward by Donald Reid of Vancouver representing Pigeon Hole Parking.

MR. CAPITAL

"Mr. Reid tells me he has the capital required and has already located the site for one of the buildings at a reasonable price," the acting mayor continued.

He said the Vancouver representative for Pigeon Hole Parking has asked council to approve the project in principle, and to "give practical evidence of support and co-operation by approving the suggested location and by early and favorable consideration of any possible rezoning that might be required."

FREE ENTERPRISE

The plan, he said, "bears out so far my long-standing belief that off-street downtown parking can be provided by free enterprise."

Mayor Scurrell is due to return to Victoria later today after two weeks in Eastern Canada and Ald. Mooney said he will seek an early meeting with him so that details of the scheme can be available for discussion by council next week.

30 Days

Parking Boost Delayed

City officials have quietly postponed for 30 days the doubling of parking meter rates in the downtown area and the reason remains officially a mystery.

But best guess among city hall observers is that aldermen don't want the start of the new meter levy to coincide with opening of the Greater Victoria area's first major suburban shopping centre on June 27.

TWO WAYS

The 10-cents-an-hour meter rate coinciding with the opening of Dominion Construction's Town 'n' Country Shopping Centre on North Douglas in Saanich could hit the city in two ways.

City merchants might attribute success of the suburban marketplace to the meter increase and lay the blame on city council, and inversely it would be difficult for city officials to evaluate the effect of the higher rates at a time when some city shoppers are bound to be having a whirl at suburban buying.

The new 10-cent meters, due to go into effect as they were installed this month, will not start going into the ground at least until July 17.

Today Will Be Warm But Weekend Cooler

John Day gets a birthday hug from Mrs. G. Ludlum, left, and Mrs. M. Glover, both members of Women's Auxiliary to the Esquimalt Legion branch.—(Colonist photo.)

Birthday Party

Adoption Fine —Even at 84

Being adopted seems to suit John Benjamin Day to a "T" even though he is 84 years old. Mr. Day was entertained yesterday at a birthday party staged in his honor by the women's auxiliary to Esquimalt Legion.

The old veteran—who has a ready smile and a gentle humor in spite of his age—was "adopted" by the legion auxiliary in the fall of last year.

Legion sick convener Gladys Ludlum and auxiliary president Mary Glover together developed the idea to help fight the tide of loneliness and despair which rises to engulf the old.

Mr. Day, who has no living relatives, has lived in the veterans' hospital for more than a year and the women of the Legion feel he's entitled to more than the bleak prospect of growing old alone.

He served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the First World War and was captured by the Germans at St. Julien in 1913. He spent more than three years in enemy prison camps.

Now Bonner Joins Ranks Of Non-Bunker Brigade

SILENT NIGHT: A month or so ago, while stressing the importance of civil defence preparedness, members of the provincial cabinet were forced to admit that none had built basement fallout shelters in their own homes.

Now Attorney-General Robert Bonner is joining ranks with the high proportion of his cabinet colleagues who live in Oak Bay—the municipality which refuses to acknowledge civil defence.

To make matters worse Provincial Secretary Wesley D. Black, the minister in charge of civil defence, is not listed in the telephone book. Should be interesting if the time ever comes when some official has to warn him that an attack is imminent!

THE SOFT SELL: Deputy works minister Arnold Walsh, the man who initiated plans for THAT FOUNTAIN, noted the other day that someone should they be so honored just because their history goes back a relatively few hundred years further than the Americans.

The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary gives these definitions:

Englishman: A man who is English by descent, birth or naturalization.

American: A native of America of European descent, esp. a citizen of the United States.

Canadian: A native or inhabitant of Canada.

According to the census people it's proper to be an Englishman but one cannot be either an American or a Canadian. This is carrying the "more British than the British" bit too far.

Yes, there's only one way to deal with this sort of thing. Question: Ethnic origin?

Answer: Caveman ... better take it back to ape ... well, if you want to go back to the start ... amoeba!

POWER POLITICS: There are rumblings of discontent and dissatisfaction among certain employees of the B.C. Power Commission over the manner in which chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside is handling things. His critics—and apparently there are quite a number—feel this is not the time for the chairman to have such extra-curricular activities as disarmament and the dangers of radiation fallout ...

Look to the CCF to make a lot of political capital out of the plight of the residents of the Revelstoke area who will be flooded out by the High Arrow development ... In a month or so perhaps the most important decision ever made in B.C.—the path to be taken on power development in this province—will be announced. It is significant that the decision will not be made by the legislature but by the Social Credit cabinet. How now democracy?

Wedding Plans Made

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hafer, 6900 East Saanich Road, announce the engagement of their only daughter, Jerene Adele, to Mr. David Wray Briscoe of Santa Barbara, California, second son of Mr. C. S. Briscoe of Silver City, New Mexico, and Mrs. Florence Briscoe of Santa Barbara. The wedding will take place at Shady Creek United Church, Central Saanich, on Saturday, July 8, at 2 p.m. Dr. W. M.

Lees will officiate. Mrs. John Seles of Victoria will be matron of honor and Mrs. Pat Hanna of Sweet Home, Oregon, sister of the groom, will be bridesmatron. Mr. D. S. Briscoe of Albany, Oregon, will be best man for his brother. Ushers will be Mr. Pat Hanna and Mr. Albert Hafer, Jr., brother of the bride. Miss Hafer is a 1959 graduate of St. Joseph's School of Radiography.

Smith-Miller Wedding In St. Aidan's Church

As organist Miss Margery Vaughn played traditional wedding music, Miss Arlene Elizabeth Miller, dressed in a dress of white chiffon, net and tulle, entered St. Aidan's United Church for her marriage to Mr. Henry Maxwell (Terry) Smith Jr.

The bride, escorted up the aisle by her father, was wearing a ballerina-length dress of white fashioned with short sleeves and a neckline trimmed with lace and pearls. The skirt was swept to the back to a bow and tiers of chiffon. Her shoulder-length veil was held to a pearl tiara. Completing her ensemble, she carried a bouquet of pink tallman roses and stephanotis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas James Miller, 1498 Ocean View Road. Maid of honor was Miss Janis Corry in a pink taffeta princess line dress. She carried mauve gladioli and wore a headress of mauve stocks. Junior bridesmaids, Miss Susan Miller and Miss Janis Smith, wore dresses of pale green taffeta fashioned on princess lines. They also carried mauve gladioli and wore matching headresses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maxwell Smith Sr., 104 Valleyview Drive, Kamloops, B.C., had Mr. John Davoren as best man. Ushers were Mr. Bill Gibbs and Mr. Michael Miller.

Rev. A. I. Avery officiated at the evening ceremony. The church was decorated with tall baskets of pink and white carnations and snapdragons, and guest pews were with white bells and ribbons. Soloist, Mrs. Ross Sturgeon sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony, guests were received in the lower hall of St. Aidan's Church, where a three-tier cake decorated in white centred the main table. White candles and pink sweetheart roses decorated the table, while buffet tables were marked with pink and white flowers. Mr. Ron Morley proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to the United States and to the groom's parents' home in Kamloops, the bride wore a turquoise blue suit with white flowered hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of pale peach roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home at Kenmore Manor, Esquimalt Road, when they return.

Ruth Adams President

Miss Ruth Adams was elected president of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club at the annual meeting held in the club rooms recently. Also elected to office were Mrs. Vera Wade, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Enid Webster, 2nd vice-president; Miss Elizabeth Clement, recording secretary; Mrs. Sara Hamill, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Lillian Wright, treasurer; and Mrs. Doris Ewer, Mrs. Madge Hall, Mrs. Bessie Marriott, Mrs.

Margaret Rust and Miss Emily Warburton, directors. Reports from committee chairmen showed affiliation with the United Nations, the Local Council of Women, the Council of Canadian Citizenship and the Canadian Association of Consumers.

Mrs. Lillian Smith reported an increase in the club's annual scholarship from $150 to $200. The scholarship is awarded to a leading girl student majoring in commerce and who plans to continue on the university program.

Miss Ella Brett, president for the past two years, was in the chair and a vote of thanks to the retiring executive was moved by Miss Dorothy Crighton. Installation of new officers will be conducted by Mrs. Margaret Laughlin at a dinner meeting on June 26.

More Walking Is What We Need!

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women should walk more, says Mrs. Lorne Brown, who has received her master's degree in physical education. "I'm horrified at women's attitude toward fitness. They should be more conscious of it. If they just walked more. Housewives should be encouraged to get out and do more about physical fitness. It would change their outlook." Mrs. Brown, mother of two young children and wife of a PURPLE STAR Purple Star Lodge, No. 104, LOBA, will meet on Wednesday, June 21 at 8 p.m. in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

Reception for 450 At Bennett Wedding

A wedding of particular interest to the Okanagan Valley and the other parts of the province took place on Wednesday evening at the First United Church in Kelowna when Lois Mac, younger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Underhill, became the bride of Russell James Bennett, elder son of Premier and Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white peonies and ferns. Tall candles with lighted tapers were set around the altar. The Rev. E. H. Birdall officiated and the soloist, Mrs. Kenneth Harding, accompanied by Dr. Ivan Beattie at the organ, sang "The Lord's Prayer" when the couple met at the altar, and later during the signing of the register "All Joy Be Thine" and "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a model gown of white silk organza over tulle. The modelled bodice was softened with filmy Venetian lace and sprinkled with tiny dew drop pearls. The full, bouffant, floor length skirt had a dramatic panel of lace cascading down the waistline at the back where it was caught by two white organza roses, and a single large white hibiscus flower of organza and silk velvet held her chapel length veil of nylon net inset with venetian lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of mauve orchids.

The groom wore a tuxedo complemented with a corsage of mauve orchids.

The matron of honor was Mrs. William Bennett, sister-in-law of the groom; bridesmaids were Miss Diana Miller, Miss Genevieve Anderson, and the groom's sister Mrs. Geoffrey Tozer, was bridesmaid. All four attendants wore dresses alike in wood violet silk organza over matching tulle. The short "Hartnell" bell shaped skirts billowed out from simple sleeveless fitted bodices with rounded necklines. Matching headbands were centred with circles of white carnations providing a "Watteau" effect. They carried cascade bouquets of white carnations centred with mauve orchids.

Acting as best man was Mr. William Bennett, brother of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Geoffrey Tozer, brother-in-law of the groom; Mr. Tony Tozer; Mr. Russell Ensign of Okanagan Centre, brother-in-law of the bride; Mr. Harold Poyer and Mr. William Arnold of Vernon.

After the ceremony a reception for 450 guests was held in the lovely grounds of the lakeshore home of the bride's parents. The mother of the bride received the guests in a dress of golden toned Italian silk styled on classic lines with a softly pleated draped bodice of matching tulle chiffon, a model hat of crushed gold chiffon and flowers on tone, matching accessories and a corsage of mauve orchids.

Mrs. Bennett chose a dress of chiffon in a soft shade of green with a draped bodice and straight lined skirt featuring a panel down the left side. The high crown of her model hat was covered with white flowers shading softly to green and the brim was covered with white green-tipped petals. Her accessories were white, and she wore a green and white necklace and earrings, the whole costume charmingly complemented with a corsage of mauve orchids.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Dr. Walter Anderson. The toast to the bridesmaids was given by the best man who also read the many telegrams received.

The softly lit garden presented a delightful scene with the gay dresses and flowered hats of the ladies contrasting with the shadows of the trees and the glimmer of the lake.

The small bride's table set in the garden was centred with a three tier wedding cake topped by a vase filled with a miniature replica of the bride's bouquet, and surrounded with delicate shell pink tulle dotted with rose buds.

On the refreshment table on the patio was set a silver bowl of pastel colored roses flanked by candles in tall silver candle-labers. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. C. R. McLeod of Kamloops and Mrs. W. T. Irvine of Vancouver, both aunts of the bride; Mrs. R. G. Rutherford of Kelowna and Mrs. W. C. Budd of North Vancouver.

Before leaving on a motor trip to Vancouver Island and the United States the bride changed to a charming two piece costume of light soufflé wool in a deep seafoam shade with an overblouse of double chiffon in a paler shade and a bonnet shaped hat of chiffon petals in blending shades of seafoam. Her shoes and bag were bone color and her corsage was two small mauve orchids.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will reside in Kelowna.

Pictured before St. Richard's Church at Gordon Head are members of the ladies' guild, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. E. L. Aubel and Mrs. Arthur Whittaker with Mrs. Ray Rawnsley, who will present a fashion show at the guild's strawberry tea on Wednesday, June 21. The affair will be a continuation of the celebration of St. Richard's patronal festival. Con- venter of the strawberry tea, Mrs. Thomas, has announced that the affair will be held from 2.30 to 5.30 p.m.

Curator Knows How to Spend Women's Committee Profits

Right on the heels of the announcement that the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria had amassed a total of $3,829.91 during the past year, Mr. Colin Graham, curator, proposed a number of ways in which to spend not only that amount, but much more besides.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Committee Wednesday evening at the Gallery, Mr. Graham spoke on "Buying—From a Curator's Point of View."

He pointed out to the members the importance and necessity of discrimination in buying, and mentioned some of the likely prospects for the Gallery's acquisition.

What must be avoided, he stated, was hysteria buying of the very fashionable paintings which had phenomenal prices, and what should be sought out are the less fashionable paintings which, in time, will be back in fashion.

"Right now the Impressionist and Post-Impressionist paintings are the rage, and out of our price range. What we must do is to watch in other directions for some of the excellent and relatively less expensive paintings available such as the Dutch old masters, Baroque paintings, 18th century Venetian painters, late Gothic early renaissance religious and German painters of the first four decades of the 19th century."

These are fields that deserve more interest, and ones which, he feels, will regain popularity and value in years to come.

"Besides paintings, there are other works of art that we can gather at reasonable prices," he suggested such objects as oriental pieces, porcelains, and Tibetan art, of which the Gallery has at this time a small collection. How does one go about buying genuine old masters at a distance?

Mr. Graham said that it is essential to enquire around reputable art collectors, and that the only sure way was to go to some outstanding public servant, a recognized authority in the particular field, and retain him to report on the condition, price, etc. of the piece in which one is interested.

"Only in this way," Mr. Graham continued, "can one receive an unbiased, honest opinion."

Mr. Graham leaves for eastern Canada on Friday, and has promised the Women's Committee to watch carefully for good buys in paintings and to make good use of their year's bank balance.

ANNUAL MEETING
His speech followed the annual dinner meeting of the Women's Committee, which included their annual meeting.

Retiring president, Mrs. Robert Stark, presided, and in her report covered the year's activities.

Money-making events included a dessert party which raised $153.84; a luncheon, $62.58; Christmas dance, $67.94; superfluity sale, treasure auction and rummage sale, $1,223.73; two fashion shows, $502.43; house tour, $386.34; Barron Frolic, $322.05 and picture loans, $300. She also reported that there are now 75 active and five inactive members of the Women's Committee.

Expenditures during the year covered the 15th Annual Jury Show, Children's Art Glass Show in the May 24 Parade, book tokens to speakers, donations to the children's art classroom, house committee purchases, and the purchase and installation of a new hot water tank for the kitchen.

Last year's executive who gave reports were: Mrs. R. T. McKean, first vice-president; Mrs. B. Klekstad, second vice-president; Mrs. D. S. Tyck, recording secretary; Mrs. C. M. Nelles, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. A. R. Alexander, treasurer.

The new executive who will take over in the fall when meetings resume are: President, Mrs. R. T. McKean; vice-president, Mrs. R. A. Hadfield; second, Mrs. W. L. Fahy; treasurer, Mrs. A. R. Alexander; recording secretary, Mrs. R. L. Horne and corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. M. Nelles.

In charge of dinner arrangements was the social committee under direction of Mrs. William Wade and Mrs. R. A. Hadfield. Mrs. Peter Banks arranged the beautiful pink flower arrangements which decorated the main table, hall and individual tables.

PERSONAL MENTION

Toronto Convention

Mrs. D. L. Brown has returned to her home at 3885 Scotland Road after 12 days in Ontario, Canada. While away she attended the annual meeting and convention of the Canadian Diabetic Association in Toronto. She also visited with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cooke in Montreal and with them visited Lake Memphremagog. She travelled both ways by TCA jet. During her time in Toronto Mrs. Brown had the opportunity to meet Dr. Charles Best who spoke at the meeting. Also representing the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Diabetic Association was Dr. John A. Hunt of Vancouver.

Visiting Families

Flying Officer Bruce M. Arnold, RCAF, and Mrs. Arnold arrived with their three children Douglas, Cathy and David this week to spend some time visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McQuarrie, 281 Island Highway, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Arnold, 30 Howe Street. On Wednesday young Douglas celebrated his seventh birthday with a party at the McQuarrie home. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold will return to Greenwood, N.S. on June 21.

PRO PATRIA

The Ladies Auxiliary to Pro Patria Branch No. 31 Canadian Legion will hold their regular meeting and banquet Tuesday, June 20 at 6 p.m. at 626 Courtney Street.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Doesn't anybody read your stuff before it goes into the paper? Some of your advice is good but I can't imagine a respectable family newspaper printing letters which deal with 17-year-old high school girls getting pregnant.

We have two teen-age daughters and I don't think they should be reading such trash. Why put ideas into their heads? We are doing our best to raise wholesome young ladies and believe me it's no easy job what with sex, immorality, and junky magazines being thrown in your face left and right.

In my opinion you can keep yourself plenty busy without getting into subjects that no decent girl should know about. What's the matter with you anyway?—DISGUSTED

Dear Disgusted: Did you know that the average age for unwed mothers in this country is 16? These girls get into trouble because they know too little—not too much.

This column is fit material for anyone who can read. A girl who is old enough to know what unwed means should also know what an unwed mother is—and how she got that way.

Correct information, presented in a forthright manner, is the best insurance against getting into trouble. Parents who attempt to sweep sex under the rug or pretend that it doesn't exist in the hope that their children won't notice it, are unrealistic and foolish.

Father and Son Angling Team Wins Weekend at Fishing Lodge

A father and son team, which has weighed in 42 trout from Elk Lake this year in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest, will spend this weekend as guests of Painter's Lodge at Campbell River.

C. W. (Bill) Hunter, 730 Violet, was the big winner in the hidden weight contests for May with a 1:15-pounder and will take along his father, C. A. (Scotty) Hunter for the Campbell River fishing trip, with Painter's Lodge as headquarters.

MUCH AS POSSIBLE

The father and son team fishes together as much as possible—Elk Lake, Saanich Spit, and Cowichan Lake—but they have never fished the Campbell River area.

"I have never won anything in my life before. Oh, I sure am tickled. Wait until I tell Dad. We will go this weekend," the younger Hunter said when told he had won the contest.

13 TROUT

He has weighed 13 trout into the King Fisherman contest this year. The elder Hunter weighed 12 trout in May and so far this month has weighed 13. Together they caught 12 trout Sunday on Elk Lake.

They can look forward to good fishing at Campbell River. Painter's Lodge manager Ted Smithering says the blueback fishing is hot, the big cutthroat are at the mouth of the river and they are catching big trout in the lakes. "Everything is ready. There will be a boat and motor at their disposal," he said.

proof that it pays to register all fish, because it is often the small one that wins the hidden weight.

Pat Burnett, of Wilson Trailer Court at Nanaimo, took out a Colonist subscription at Zulderzee Camp on May 11 before going fishing. On May 22 he caught the 2-pound bass which wins him a Sea King Expert spinning rod. Gordon Austin, Box 14, Youbou, wins a Sea King Expert spinning rod for his 1:5-pounder from Cowichan Lake.

Only Colonist subscribers may win the big merchandise prizes offered as both hidden weight and main fishing prizes. Each entry gets in on two hidden weight draws—one for the month it was registered and another at the end of the contest for the all-expenses paid trip to Mexico via Canadian Pacific Airlines; the wilderness camping-fishing trip by Vancouver Island Helicopters, and the Thorne aluminum cartop boat.

Submarine Crew Aids 'Army' Fund

Submariners aboard the navy's newest unit—HMCS Grise—have contributed $87 towards the Salvation Army's Matson Sunset Lodge-Red Shield campaign. The crew of the submarine mailed their contribution to the fund drive from Panama, where they stopped en route to Esquimalt from the east coast.

The $245,000 drive has collected about $211,000 to date. On Monday, proceeds from opening night of Gerry Gossley's Smile Show will be contributed to the drive.

B.C. Party Plays Indians In Search of Old Remains

VANCOUVER (CU) — A party of archaeologists from the University of British Columbia is playing Indian in its search for archaeological remains in areas to be flooded by creation of Columbia River power projects in southern B.C.

The group is in the Kootenay area, scouring the shorelines of the upper and lower Arrow lakes and the Columbia River between Castlegar and Revelstoke, mapping sites of early Indian habitation. "What they will try to do is project themselves into the situation of an Indian looking for a likely place to camp," says Dr. Charles Borden, UBC archaeology division member who is general supervisor of the Kootenay project.

Likely sites are game crossings, berry picking areas, good fishing grounds and headlands which provide a sweeping view of the lakes. These are the types of places where wandering bands of Indians would settle for varying periods of time, says Dr. Borden.

When the party finds a likely spot, it will seek surface evidence of occupation—such things as stone knives, arrow heads, remains of hearths and chipping detritus, which is the waste material from the making of implements. Citizens in the area can help by indicating known Indian campsites and burial grounds, Dr. Borden says.

Field leader of the survey is Peter Harrison, who has worked with Dr. Borden on previous expeditions.

City Woman Wins $1,549 Damages

General damages of $1,300 and special damages of $249 have been awarded Miss Violet Bramwell, 1151 Burnside West, in an action in B.C. Supreme Court resulting from an automobile crash.

Miss Bramwell was a passenger in a taxi owned by Quarter Cab Co. Ltd., 708 Johnson, driven by Alexander Macmillan, when the cab was involved in a collision with a private car driven by Walter Timms, of Port Alberni.

The crash occurred at 9 a.m. on July 12, 1960, and Miss

Youth Fined For Liquor

NO WASTE

Garden crops are grown on every foot of tillable land in Formosa, with some natives even cultivating space between railway tracks.

DO 'SLIMMING DIETS' AGE THE COMPLEXION?

Sometimes it happens! A low-fat diet, combined with a rushed modern life—outdoors in all weathers, indoors in overheated rooms—can lead to a condition of skin dryness. And from this may develop those worrying problems of harsh, flaky patches, little lines, crow's feet. What to do? Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds deep penetration of Pond's moisturized lanolin. Dried-out, thirsty tissues in the skin's sub-surface are re-vitalized, and, almost overnight, your complexion takes on a softer, smoother, younger look. Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. Buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Advt.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Although International Match Point scoring introduces considerations that make extra tricks important, declarer's first concern must be to safeguard a good contract. A safety play executed by Peter Levitt gained a swing for the U.S. on this deal in the World Championship match against Argentina.

It was rare that the bidding and the opening lead were identical in any deal in this world championship, but this was the exception. The two club responses to an opening no trump bid, usually called on to discover a possible fit in a four-card major, was used by both North players for the purpose of making South declarer if the hand was to be played at hearts and also of deciding whether the final contract should be game at hearts or no trump.

The brilliant spade opening was made in both rooms. Declarer ducked and East won with the spade queen, returning a club. The Argentine declarer took a club finesse. When it lost to West, another spade came through South let West win a trick. With four tricks home, the defenders still had to gain a heart trick that set the contract.

Levitt made sure of his contract by winning the club shift with his ace. He crossed to dummy's diamond queen and led a heart to the eight-spot. West took the trick with the jack, but no lead he could make could menace the contract. When he continued spades, North's ace was taken. Declarer ran four heart tricks, then played the diamonds, and made four-odd when the diamond jack fell.

Saanich Survey

Water System Could Expand

Possibility that the new Central Saanich water system may be used to serve separate water districts in North Saanich is under consideration.

A spokesman for Central Saanich said last night the provincial government has launched a survey of the North Saanich area and found that there are four possible water districts, each with enough population to merit a piped water supply.

Meanwhile the municipality has started its own survey to find out if there will be enough water to go around.

Water for the system comes from Elk Lake through a pipeline built during the Second World War to supply Patricia Bay Airport and the Saanich experimental farm.

COST ONE DOLLAR

The line was purchased last year by the municipality from the federal government for one dollar.

In order to purchase the pipeline the municipality had to guarantee a continued supply of water to the experimental farm and the airport.

The present system serves the B.C. government ferries and facilities at Swartz Bay through an eight-inch line laid by the provincial government during construction of the ferry slip.

A number of applications for service have been sent to the municipality from residents on the north end of the peninsula.

be working very long hours," said Mr. Louheed in a parting shot.

"There's one family I deal with that's been grossing more than $800 a month for four years and that one family bought 12 automobiles in 1960."

No Sweater Sweatshops

'Slave Wages' Denied by Marketer

Charges that private operators are swindling Cowichan Indian sweater knitters by paying "slave wages" for their work, were vigorously denied in Victoria yesterday.

Norman Louheed, proprietor of Dominion Import and Export Co. Ltd., said his company—which specializes in the purchase and sale of the sweaters—pays the Indians as much, or more, than does the Indian-owned co-operative.

The hassle was triggered by a news story which quoted Elwood Modeste of Duncan as saying that the private operators were paying the Indians as little as five cents an hour for their work.

"Rubbish," says Mr. Louheed. "In the first place, Mr. Modeste is inferring that we're all a bunch of fly-by-night operators who just came in to gobble up the business. We've been in this business a long time and our business has been increasing steadily."

In 1956, he said, his company marketed 1,600 sweaters. In 1960, 5,800 were disposed of and the target for this year is 6,800.

He countered Mr. Modeste's claim that private operators were paying as little as $5 a sweater by showing figures which indicate his company is paying an average price of about $17.

"In my books, that's just $2 a sweater more than the co-operative's stated price."

"If these Indians are only getting five cents an hour for their work, some of them must

Water Bomber Tested Against Hillside Blaze

COURTENAY—A Mars flying tanker was brought in at noon yesterday to experiment with dousing the dying embers of a 70-acre forest fire 26 miles west of here.

Al Ludwick of Crown Zellerbach said the logging industry is interested in testing the effectiveness of the flying tankers in cooling off smouldering land. Techniques of their use in steep country at the site of the fire is also being tested.

Woolworth Store Faces Strike Today

PORT ALBERNI — Retail $1.50 an hour for assistant Food and Drug Clerk's Union Local 1518 has served 48-hour notice of intent to strike the F. W. Woolworth store here.

The strike, effective this afternoon, followed balloting with 19 employees voting in favor of strike action, five against.

The strike vote was taken after the firm had rejected a conciliation board majority report granting a basic wage of $1.25 to $1.45 an hour, with

Secretary-treasurer William W. Wells of the local stated that the main issues besides wages involve union shop and a health and welfare plan.

In a strike vote taken at Russell's Jewellers here the ballot box has been sealed pending a decision of the labor relations board after the union had contested eligibility to vote of one staff member.

Gallery Given Works of Art

A former Victoria resident has presented a special group of gifts to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria's permanent collection.

The works have been donated by Mrs. Fred Pollard, now of San Francisco. They will comprise the Fred and Isabel Pollard Collection and additions will be made to it from time to time.

Among the items forming the nucleus of the collection are a 16th century Russian icon of St. Demetrius, an antique Japanese porcelain vase and a Jordanian Arab textile.

Beacon Hill Park will be the setting for a Sunday afternoon concert by the 50-piece HMCS Naden Band July 2.

Schools Hold Sports Day

More than 300 youngsters from three elementary schools in the Sooke area will compete in an annual sports day at 10 a.m. today at Sooke Elementary School.

Taking part in the races will be Saseenos, Jordan River and Sooke Elementary Schools. Trophies to be won include the Sooke Canadian Legion Trophy with all contestants eligible, the Otter Point Trophy for first, second and third prize winners nine years and over, and a trophy for the boy or girl with the highest aggregate score in each age group.

Supervising the day will be Laurie Simpson, principal of Sooke Elementary School.

During the course members will also visit other countries to observe their defence installations.

Some 450 representatives and exhibitors are attending the annual convention of Washington and Oregon Independent Telephone Associations, meeting for the first time in Victoria.

The second day of the three-day meet concluded yesterday with seminars on technical problems of station apparatus, installation and maintenance.

Today's sessions were to deal with public relations, accounting procedures and marketing.

We'll Answer With Force Says Nikita

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev challenged the West on all major cold war issues last night and demanded a German peace treaty within six months. This would end the Western occupation rights in Berlin.

"Some threaten they will not recognize (a treaty) and will use force to oppose it," Khrushchev said. "Any force against us will be answered by force. We have the means." His take-it-or-leave-it challenge came in an unprecedented, internationally televised "fireside chat" on his Vienna talks with President Kennedy.

Ulbricht Threatens

Only a few hours earlier East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht openly threatened interference with West Berlin's traffic should a peace treaty be signed and hinted that Western planes might be forced down if they tried to form another Berlin airlift.

Khrushchev's statement was a grim restatement of every Soviet stand of the past year from Berlin to disarmament. Last night he appeared to doom the Geneva nuclear test ban talks to failure when he insisted on his plan for "total" control—a three-man control commission comprised of representatives of the East,

West and a neutralist nation, with each man carrying a veto.

Khrushchev was unyielding on any cold war point. He called for a German peace treaty within the year, threatened to hand over Berlin communication routes to the East Germans and said Russia would fight to help East Berlin defend its borders.

He was just as unyielding on disarmament. He said all attempts to reach agreement on disarmament have failed and restated his demands for a Communist veto in future cold war negotiations. He called again for veto controls over United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

United States Blamed

He blamed the United States for the growing crisis in Laos but put the blame more on former president Dwight D. Eisenhower than on Kennedy. He warned, however, that the United States must be aware of the consequences of further provocations in Asia.

Though much of his speech was a restatement of previous speeches and his Vienna memoranda to Kennedy on Berlin and disarmament, Khrushchev said that lack of a German peace treaty threatened world war.

"In general I was satisfied with the talks" with President Kennedy," he said. The talks were very frank. I listened to the American views and our views were listened to. That was valuable.

"It was not expected that agreement would be reached. But I believe that Kennedy understands the great responsibilities of our two powerful states."

Later in his speech Khrushchev was particularly bitter toward a group of Canadian

Six-Months Ultimatum On Berlin

GENEVA (UPI)—The first assessment of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's speech by Western diplomats last night was that he had given the West what amounts to a six-month ultimatum to accept a Berlin settlement, Russian fashion, and like it.

Diplomats attending the Geneva Laos and nuclear conferences said his policy blueprint left the West no doubt that Allied refusal will not stop him from handing control of Berlin communication routes to the East German Communists.

They said the blueprint amounted to take it or leave it challenge on all cold war issues in Europe and elsewhere.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary Lord Home yesterday called Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's scheme for dividing control of world organizations "the most sterile and bankrupt doctrine that has ever been advanced." He said if accepted, it would mean "the end of the United Nations as we know it today."

Odorous Honor

OTTAWA (UPI)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton yesterday fulfilled a promise to her arch-rival controller Paul Tardif by naming an avenue after him.

Coyne Counter-Attack Keeps Battle Boiling

OTTAWA (CP)—James E. Coyne, with a government axe hanging over his job, struck back yesterday with a charge that the government—not himself—has failed to meet the country's economic problems.

An accusation of inadequate fiscal action by the government was contained in a sharply-worded statement by the Bank of Canada governor replying to Wednesday's heavy attack on him by Finance Minister Fleming in the Commons.

The counter-attack by one of the country's top public servants kept at a boiling point the controversy over the government's May 30 request for his resignation. Mr. Coyne refused to quit, and Mr. Fleming said Wednesday the government will seek parliamentary action to fire him.

The strongest rebuff by the 50-year-old governor was to Mr. Fleming's statement that Mr. Coyne—custodian of monetary policy—had advocated "restrictionist" economic policies.

CONSTRUCTIVE
"The trouble has not been in the field of monetary policy, which has always played a constructive part in Canadian economic development," Mr. Coyne said.

"What has been lacking so far is adequate action in the field of fiscal growth of the Canadian economy under Canadian ownership and control."

OBVIOUS REFERENCE
In an obvious reference to Mr. Fleming's statement that government policy is "expansionist" aimed at increased trade, production and jobs, the governor commented:

"In this respect Mr. Fleming revealed yesterday the government now has been suddenly converted... The whole country will be glad to hear this."

IMPOSSIBLE
Mr. Coyne, in effect, rejected Mr. Fleming's statement that it has become impossible for the government to expect the bank governor's co-

CBC Offer Refused By Coyne

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC says that James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, has declined an invitation from the network to appear with Finance Minister Fleming in a special half-hour television press conference.

A CBC spokesman said Mr. Fleming had accepted a panel of reporters with the bank governor.

'Borrow in U.S.' For Columbia

WASHINGTON (CP)—Two Canadian professors conclude that it would be a lot cheaper to borrow Columbia River development funds in the United States than in Canada.

In a study prepared for a private research organization known as Resources for the Future, the University of Western Ontario professors suggest the U.S. government should do most of the borrowing and turn the proceeds over to a Canadian development agency.

The professors estimated that if the Canadian funds for the project are raised in Canada, the interest rate might be about 3 1/2 per cent. This would decrease to about 3 per cent if borrowing is done by a Canadian government in the U.S. and to about 4 1/2 per cent or less if borrowing is done in the U.S. under the auspices of the U.S. government.

Shipping Paralysis Threatens

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four maritime unions early today called an immediate three-coast strike against shipowners that could paralyze the American merchant shipping industry.

The strike threatens to idle about 1,000 American passenger ships, freighters and tankers.

Action Urged To Block Ad 'Raids'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Gratian O'Leary royal commission on publications proposed action on two fronts Thursday to block American raids on Canadian advertising revenues:

Increased costs to advertisers who choose a foreign-owned outlet and an import ban on foreign magazines carrying advertising aimed specifically at the Canadian market. (See also Page 14.)

SOMBRE VIEW

The commission said the role of the periodical press in building Canadian unity cannot be ignored, but it cannot contribute its share if it is beset by overwhelming competitive conditions that threaten its survival.

With this sombre view of the situation in the Canadian magazine field, the three-man commission suggested a program to halt the flow of domestic advertising revenues to U.S.-owned periodicals no matter where they are printed.

DIRECT METHOD

The commission said the simplest and most direct method of dealing with the diversion of Canadian domestic advertising to foreign periodicals printed in Canada is to deny the advertiser the privilege of deducting his advertising costs as a business expense.

SCHEDULE URGED

For foreign periodicals entering Canada, the commission proposed that Canada provide under a Customs Act schedule that magazines entering Canada shall contain no advertising "which on its face indicates the availability of a product or service in Canada or is otherwise primarily directed to consumers in Canada."

MAIN TARGETS

Principal targets if the recommendations are adopted by the government would be Time and Reader's Digest. Both magazines publish Canadian editions and between them have been picking up some 40 per cent of magazine advertising revenue in Canada.

The Canadian edition of Time is printed in the U.S. but it has announced plans to move the printing job to Canada. The Reader's Digest is printed in Montreal.

BEING CONSIDERED

In tabling the report in the Commons, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the government is giving it careful consideration in the light of the administration's objective "to foster a sound and strong Canadianism."

Much of the writing of the 25,000-word report—reinforced by a bulky separate volume of appendices—carried the unmistakable style of commission chairman Gratian O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal and a newspaperman for more than half a century.

With him on the commission were George Johnston and Claude Beaubien.

OTTAWA (UPI)—A three-year preliminary study, released yesterday by the federal government, blames both manufacturers and retailers for Canadian drug prices being "among the highest in the world."

The study, submitted by combines investigation director D. H. W. Henry as background for a fuller probe, said Canadian drug prices generally ran about 11 per cent above United States levels, already criticized as exorbitant by a U.S. Congressional committee.

Justice Minister E. Davis Fulton, who tabled the preliminary study in the Commons, announced earlier this week that the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission will open public hearings on the issue July 4 in Ottawa.

KEY FACTOR

Henry's 290-page report pointed to the control over drug manufacture, distribution and sale given manufacturers through patents as the key factor behind the high prices. These patents have been used to create a monopolistic situation which had "virtually eliminated" competition in ethical drug pricing, the report said.

ADVANTAGE TAKEN

"The clear intention of the special provisions of the Canadian patent law is that this situation should not obtain," it said. "However, advantage has not been taken of these provisions and the drug industry in Canada is, for all practical purposes, operating under conditions determined by the patent laws of the United States."

DRUGGISTS BLAMED

On the retail level, the report said it found "very little" price competition. And it blamed the situation on the druggists themselves for adopting with little variation the suggested prices and rates provided by manufacturers' and pharmacists' associations.

'FROWNED ON'

"Failure by a druggist to observe these suggested prices is frowned on as chiselling," it added.

The same situation applied to prescriptions, the report said. Any attempt by druggists to compete in this field was regarded as "at least verging on unethical conduct," it said.

NO ALTERNATIVE

On the controversy over generic versus brand names, the report said increased use of generic names by doctors would "undoubtedly exert some pressure on the prices of brand-named products."

They Mean To Destroy Us—Time

MONTREAL (CP)—Time magazine said yesterday it is slated for destruction in Canada if the O'Leary report were put into effect and doubted the government or the Canadian people would approve the recommendations.

'CLEAR INTENTION'

Lawrence E. Laybourne, managing director of Time International of Canada Limited, said "the clear intention of the report seems to be to destroy Time in Canada."

"We cannot believe that the government would adopt such recommendations or that the Canadian people would approve such action."

The Reader's Digest said some of the recommendations are "discriminatory" against what it considers to be a Canadian operation.

'Rock' Tactics Mend Marriages Overnight

LONDON (UPI)—Britons, whose divorce rate is soaring, were advised yesterday by the "Solicitors' Journal" to follow the custom of the tiny Okinawan fishing village of Ganka and set up a "divorce rock."

The magazine said that when a marriage in Ganka appeared to be heading for a divorce, the couple is banished to the offshore "divorce rock" with no other company and only one blanket for the two of them.

The Journal added that it usually takes only one night to bring an end to any marital squabble. The custom works well—Ganka has not had a divorce in 50 years.

Terror on TV Copied by Tiny Tots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators yesterday watched a film showing tiny tots committing television-type mayhem on their dolls.

Another film shown to the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee showed children who don't watch violent TV shows playing quietly with plastic tea sets and crayons.

The films were made by Stanford University psychologists as part of an experiment to find out whether children imitate the aggressive acts they see on television.

Dr. Albert Van Dura, a

Stanford psychology professor, said they do.

The first film shows children who just watched a violent 10-minute film kicking a doll around the room, throwing it in the air, sitting on it and beating it with a mallet while screaming "punch him in the nose" and "kick him."

Such remarks, said Van Dura, were extremely rare among children who hadn't watched adult violence.

The children who hadn't watched the film picked up crayons, tea sets and plastic farm animals to play with.

Van Dura said the experiment left little doubt that "exposure to filmed aggression heightens aggressive reactions in children."

Van Dura said his group observed the children through one-way mirrors, and decided children who watched the film were twice as violent as those who hadn't. Indeed, he said, the violence watchers were "carbon copies" of the actors they watched.

Defence News Clam-Up Probe Set

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, said yesterday the BBG will investigate a claim that CFCF-TV Montreal does not broadcast defence news because it is owned by the Canadian Marconi Company, a company bidding for government defence orders.

Census

$100 Fine Expected by Holdout

WINFIELD, B.C. (CP)—Poultry farmer Alex Beasley said Thursday he expects to be summoned to court and probably fined for holding out on the census taker.

He refused to answer questions when the district census taker called earlier in the week. Wednesday he got a visit from Ken Keating, regional organizer for the Dominion bureau of statistics, who came all the way from Vancouver to this Okanagan community to see him.

An RCMP officer sat in on the interview. But Farmer Beasley, veteran of one-man battles against party politics and the like, still held out.

"He tried his best but he hadn't any argument," Beasley said Thursday.

Beasley, believed to be the only census holdout in Canada, has said he is willing to pay the expected $100 fine for refusal to answer census questions.

PENTICTON (CP)—Four men appeared in police court here Thursday on charges ranging from assault to intoxication, following a Wednesday fracas at the clubrooms of the Royal Canadian Legion here.

One club official was injured during the fight and another had his jacket ripped from his back.

Canada Takes Step Towards Satellite

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (CP)—Canada has taken a major step toward successful completion of its first satellite with the space testing of the unique model of the satellite's antenna, longest in the Western world.

Fired into space Wednesday night in the nose cone of a four-stage United States Javelin rocket, the 62-pound Canadian payload consisted mainly of two rolled steel tapes that unfurled on radio command.

stiffened into a semi-tubular shape and extended a distance of 75 feet on each side of the instrumented package.

All this time the payload, shot 561 miles above the earth, was spinning at a speed of up to 650 revolutions a minute.

This experiment was necessary because the Canadian satellite to be shot into space from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., early next year, will be stabilized in space by a spinning technique.

The satellite, a joint Canadian-U.S. project, will investigate the upper layers of the ionosphere. The rocket will be American; the satellite Canadian.

Doors at City Hall Close at 4.30 P.M.

Doors of Victoria's City Hall closed at 4.30 p.m. for the first time yesterday as a result of a compromise settlement reached with the city's 100 inside workers a few weeks ago.

The summer hours, from 8.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., will remain in effect until Sept. 15 when the city hall will again stay open until 5 p.m.

Council accepted the half-hour shorter day from June 15 to Sept. 15 after rejecting a conciliation award which would have seen the summer hours in force for five months each year.

Maximum of Three

Cat Rationing Issue Revived

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney said yesterday on the heels of a new complaint to City Hall that he will renew his appeal to council for a bylaw limiting to three the number of cats allowed in a household.

Last major effort to secure a compulsory cat limit came nearly four years ago when council defeated it by a one-vote margin.

Ald. Mooney, who spearheaded the last cat-rationing measure, said he is prepared to spearhead another.

Yesterday's complaint to City Hall named the same address which sparked the 1957 cat curtailment bid.

A neighbor, Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes, 1721 Duchess Street, said that on the evening she wrote the latest letter there were 16 cats in the front yard of the offending property.

Referring to the 1957 affair, she wrote, "I am not interested in starting the same stupid controversy with the City Protection League... I am strictly interested in my own family's welfare and I do think humans should take a little precedence over cats."

She said she and her husband were forced to burn cardboard cartons full of cat manure deposited on their property.

Galiano Fishing Trip Ends Up in Victoria

A father and son who started off on a fishing trip from Galiano Island yesterday, finished up in Victoria, their swamped boat, abandoned when the engine failed.

Ed Ketchum, of Galiano Island, and his son, C. M. Ketchum, of Philadelphia, were fishing from their 16-foot skinker-built boat off East Point, Saturna Island, when the engine conked out.

Attempting to get it going again the spark plug threads were stripped and the boat drifted helplessly in a rip tide. Their predicament was spotted by the German freighter Cap Doering which made an unsuccessful attempt to take them in tow.

The disgruntled fishermen were taken aboard the freighter and deposited at B.C. Pilotage office on Dallas Road. A search vessel was sent out from Canoe Cove to try and locate the swamped craft which contained some valuable gear.

Big, New Parking Plan To Be Presented Today

Two Buildings, Stores Space for 600 Cars

By TERRY HAMMOND

Acting Mayor Millard Mooney today will present to Mayor Percy Scurrell a proposal for more than $1,000,000 worth of downtown parking facilities completely financed by private capital.

Bare details of the plan were outlined by Ald. Mooney late yesterday as he emerged from a 90-minute conference with principals involved in the deal.

"I think this may be the solution which we have been looking for and I will urge Mayor Scurrell to take early steps to check the bona fides of the proposal so that it can be presented to city council," he said.

He told the Colonist the proposal is still in the tentative stage and that until it is more definite the city should not lose sight of the 600-car, $1,000,000 lease purchase off-street parking scheme which council has been studying for the past three weeks.

"But these people seem to mean business and they are represented in Victoria by P. R. Brown and Sons, a long-established and reputable Victoria firm," he added.

The proposal involves construction of two parking buildings with a capacity for 600 cars, several stores at ground level and possibly a rooftop heliport.

He said the scheme has been brought forward by Donald Reid of Vancouver representing Pigeon Hole Parking.

Birthday Party

Adoption Fine —Even at 84

Being adopted seems to suit John Benjamin Day to a "T" even though he is 84 years old. Mr. Day was entertained yesterday at a birthday party staged in his honor by the women's auxiliary to Esquimalt Legion.

The old veteran—who has a ready smile and a gentle humor in spite of his age—was "adopted" by the legion auxiliary in the fall of last year.

Legion sick convalescent Gladys Ludlum and auxiliary president Mary Glover together developed the idea to help fight the tide of loneliness and despair which rises to engulf the old.

Mr. Day, who has no living relatives, has lived in the veterans' hospital for more than a year and the women of the Legion feel he's entitled to more than the bleak prospect of growing old alone.

He served in the Canadian Expeditionary Force during the First World War and was captured by the Germans at St. Julien in 1915. He spent more than three years in enemy prison camps.

Today Will Be Warm But Weekend Cooler

Looks as if Victoria is going to have its cake and eat it too as far as weather is concerned. Weatherman William Mackie says today will be a repeat of yesterday, when the temperature rose to a maximum of 80 degrees. Official forecast calls for a low of 55 and a high of 78.

And for those who are complaining about the heat, it should cool off for the weekend—but there's no rain in sight. Present temperatures are expected to drop a bit, but the overall forecast calls for sunny skies.

Now Bonner Joins Ranks Of Non-Bunker Brigade

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

SILENT NIGHT! A month or so ago, while stressing the importance of civil defence preparedness, members of the provincial cabinet were forced to admit that none had built basement fallout shelters in their own homes.

Now Attorney-General Robert Bonner is joining ranks with the high proportion of his cabinet colleagues who live in Oak Bay—the municipality which refuses to acknowledge civil defence.

To make matters worse Provincial Secretary Wesley D. Black, the minister in charge of civil defence, is not listed in the telephone book. Should be interesting if the time ever comes when some official has to warn him that an attack is imminent!

THE SOFT SKILL: Deputy works minister Arnold Webb, the man who initiated plans for THAT FOUNTAIN, noted the other day that someone had defended the bitterly-critical avant garde artists by saying they must know what they were talking about because they've sold a number of works.

Drily commented Arnold: "The fact they've sold some of their creations just goes to prove there's one born every minute!"

RACIAL PREJUDICE: Some character phoned regarding this census business of racial origin and hotly claimed there was no such thing as an "American" unless, of course, it's what he termed "a Red Indian."

Using the same argument, there can be no such thing as an "Englishman" because why should they be so honored just because their history goes back a relatively few hundred years further than the Americans.

The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary gives these definitions:

Englishman: A man who is English by descent, birth or naturalization.

American: A native of America of European descent, esp. a citizen of the United States.

Canadian: A native or inhabitant of Canada.

According to the census people it's proper to be an Englishman but one cannot be either an American or a Canadian. This is carrying the "more British than the British" bit too far.

Yesir, there's only one way to deal with this sort of thing. Question: Ethnic origin?

Answer: Caveman... no, better take it back to ape... well, if you want to go back to the start... amoeba!

POWER POLITICS: There are rumblings of discontent and dissatisfaction among certain employees of the B.C. Power Commission over the manner in which chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside is handling things. His critics—and apparently there are quite a number—feel this is not the time for the chairman to have such extra-curricular activities as disavowal of the dangers of radiation fallout...

Look to the CCF to make a lot of political capital out of the plight of the residents of the Revelstoke area who will be flooded out by the High Arrow development... In a month or so perhaps the most important decision ever made in B.C.—the path to be taken on power development in this province—will be announced. It is significant that the decision will not be made by the legislature but by the Social Credit cabinet. How now democracy?

Around the Island

Maple Bay Asks Beach Route

NORTH COWICHAN—Residents of a section of Maple Bay are hoping council will shortly provide an additional beach access route for them.

Already residents of Redcap Avenue have petitioned North Cowichan to clear a path from the foot of the avenue to the beach.

The problem is that large amounts of fill have been dumped above the beach. To get to the beach by this route means a 20-foot drop.

Mrs. W. R. Heath, one of the petitioners for a path, said yesterday: "We have to go through someone else's property to get to the beach but there is no proper access to the beach."

She said the 20-foot drop "is very steep and a path would solve the problem."

Mrs. Heath said residents have made their request for a path many times during the last eight years with no results.

Coun. Gerry Smith said that last year, with works supervisor Perry Ross, he inspected the site.

Mr. Ross decided that it was too risky putting a caterpillar tractor down the bank to make a path.

Best suggestion to date, Coun. Smith said, was to put in steps. Coun. Smith is expecting to present cost of installing steps at the next council meeting.

NORTH COWICHAN—Crofton Ratepayers' Association has approached municipal council with a request for facts and figures on extension of sewer facilities to take in an additional 100 homes.

Special committee is led by Ed Alexander.

About three years ago, Crofton residents defeated a by-law to extend sewer facilities.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Campbell River District Labour Council will hold a public meeting tonight at 8 to hear provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan discuss the Labor Relations Act and current labor-management problems.

COWICHAN LAKE—Daniel Vassie, 39, of Vancouver, a mechanic at Crown Zellerbach's operation here, was crushed to death Monday when hit by the boom of a shop crane. A coroner's jury found the death accidental.

CAMPBELL RIVER—David Vanstone, a UBC student from Campbell River, suffered a possible broken jaw and lacerations when his motor-cycle hit an oil slick and went out of control, pitching the driver from the machine. He was taken to Campbell River Hospital.

PORT RENFREW—A step towards future development of Port Renfrew area is new power line being strung along West Coast Road from Jordan River. Power will be provided by B.C. Electric's hydro plant at Jordan River. Power hook-up is expected by fall.

NANAIMO—Ken Guest, Nanaimo real estate man, has been named president of the Vancouver Island Real Estate Board.

He was appointed after his election to the board director.

PORT ALBERNI—J. H. Mitchell of B.C. Hydro was guest of honor at a joint meeting of the three branches of the 4-H Club movement here. He showed films on artificial respiration and other subjects, and spoke briefly to the members in Beaver Creek Scout Hall.

DUNCAN—Because of fire danger, residents of Sherman and Somenos Roads will have to be content with only 20-pound water pressure.

City clerk Gordon Berry told council Monday that in a month's time, residents of the two roads will have much better water pressure.

He explained a new cross-over will be made on Government Street which will send adequate pressure to the two areas.

He admitted that the present

For the money earmarked for this work, council feels it is the best method of sewage disposal.

Under the water extension bylaw, a deep well will be located close to the present pumping station.

PORT ALBERNI—Alberni Valley golfers will entertain players from other centres of Vancouver Island at their ninth annual West Coast open tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25.

The Saturday tournament followed by a dance at the clubhouse, will be a warm-up for play on Sunday for the Russell Turner memorial trophy, tournament chairman Warren Paul said. The trophy, to be presented to the low gross winner, signifies the championship of the West Coast.

Among those entered is Bill Wakeham, Gorge Vale Club, Victoria, winner of the Turner Trophy last year, and Joe Marasco, Port Alberni, runner-up for 1960.

NANAIMO—One trustee resigned and another was elected at the Departure Bay Ratepayers meeting which saw Jim Kerr step down because of a disagreement with the decision of other trustees to supply water to houses in a subdivision in the area.

Elected to take his place was Norman Oliver. Mr. Kerr said that he did not feel the installation of the main met the requirements demanded and felt that the district might have to be responsible for what could be a defective system.

The other two trustees, Cliff Schoop and W. E. Vanstone both said they felt that the district was adequately protected by an agreement placing the responsibility for defects in the system on the reality firm connected with the subdivision. They argued that a delay at this time could hinder future development of the area.

DUNCAN—City council will shortly call for tenders for the pumping installation, lagoon and main lines and laterals.

Instead of being lumped together, separate bids will be sought for each phase of the work.

Consulting engineer Russ Potter suggested that separate tenders be called to implement the sewage and water supply bylaws.

Council has agreed to meet as soon as possible with Mr. Potter in order to get the work started.

The sewage disposal lagoon will be located on Indian land.

Directors elected include J. Whitmore of Duncan, Charles Bell of Port Alberni, P. Wickett of Parksville, Archie Watson of Courtenay and Robert Coveny of Courtenay.

VANCOUVER—Frederick W. Fearman yesterday resigned as manager of MacMillan, Biorde and Powell River Company's Canadian White Pine division.

He said his resignation had no connection with the recent wave of resignations of 20 former Powell River Company executives.

Mr. Fearman, an employee with 18 years' experience with the MacMillan Company, said he was resigning over personal dissatisfaction over management appointments made this week.

"These appointments did not recognize my experience and service to the company," he said.

He was manager of the company mills in Alberni before taking over Canadian White Pine two years ago.

NANAIMO—Operators of the Nanaimo airport at Cassidy have named a new manager. Ray Morrison will take over Cassidy Services from Gordon MacSwain, who has taken a similar position in Ottawa.

Cassidy operates a charter service and a flying school and just within the past few weeks has acquired the agency for Beechcraft planes and equipment.

North Cowichan

Citizens Face Sewer Fight

NORTH COWICHAN — Health authorities may step in to compel property owners of the Mary Street-Sherman Road area to accept a $127,000 sewer installation.

The sewer bylaw was recently put to residents and thrown out by 106 votes to 45 in favor.

Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan said yesterday "the scheme cannot be written off."

He added that should a petition be taken up by residents in favor of the project, the matter will again be submitted to property owners.

He also pointed out that health authorities could be called in should the situation become serious this summer.

The Mary Street-Sherman Road scheme went to property owners with the $131,000 a more or less identical project for the flood-hit Alexander subdivision last month which was approved by residents.

Shortly after the Alexander sewer bylaw was approved, North Cowichan council was requested to take no action.

John R. Neen, representing the residents of the Alexander area, presented council with a petition signed by 70 persons all opposing the sewer plan.

He claimed that some residents did not realise they would be affected.

Reeve Morton said work on the Alexander project will begin in July or August. It will not be completed until the latter part of the year.

As for the protest, Reeve Morton said "by the time we received this petition the by-law had been legally passed and there was nothing we could do about it."

company — which specializes in the purchase and sale of the sweaters — pays the Indians as much, or more, than does the Indian-owned co-operative.

The hassle was triggered by a news story which quoted Elwood Modeste of Duncan as saying that the private operators were paying the Indians as little as five cents an hour for their work.

"Rubbish," says Mr. Loughheed. "In the first place, Mr. Modeste is inferring that we're all a bunch of fly-by-night operators who just came in to gobble up this business a long time and our business has been increasing steadily."

In 1956, he said, his company marketed 1,600 sweaters. In 1960, 5,800 were disposed of and the target for this year is 6,800.

He countered Mr. Modeste's claim that private operators were paying as little as $5 a sweater by showing figures which indicate his company is paying an average price of about $17.

"In my books, that's just $2 a sweater more than the co-operative's stated price."

"If these Indians are only getting five cents an hour for their work, some of them must

COURTENAY — A Mars flying tanker was brought in at noon yesterday to experiment with dousing the dying embers of a 70-acre forest fire 26 miles west of here.

Al Ludwick of Crown Zellerbach said the logging industry is interested in testing the effectiveness of the flying tankers in cooling off smouldering land. Techniques of their use in steep country at the site of the fire is also being tested.

Woolworth Store Faces Strike Today

PORT ALBERNI — Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union Local 1518 has served 48-hour notice of intent to strike the F. W. Woolworth store here.

The strike, effective this afternoon, followed balloting with 19 employees voting in favor of strike action, five against.

The strike vote was taken after the firm had rejected a conciliation board majority report granting a basic wage of $1.25 to $1.45 an hour, with $1.50 an hour for assistant manager, a union spokesman said.

Secretary-treasurer William W. Wells of the local stated that the main issues besides wages involve union shop and a health and welfare plan.

In a strike vote taken at Russell's Jewellers here the ballot box has been sealed pending a decision of the labor relations board after the union had contested eligibility to vote of one staff member.

Scientists at Sea Bag 500 Seals

Training Den For Lions Short of Cash

COURTENAY — A Chamber of Commerce sponsoring committee expressed disappointment yesterday over the financial result of a dinner Wednesday to raise funds for Lions' football camp expenses.

Al Rae, chairman, said only about $400 will be realized against the $5,000 the Courtenay Lions committee needs for Lewis Park renovations.

Conflicts with other community events was one of the reasons advanced for a poorer turnout than expected.

Coch Wayne Robinson and manager Herb Capozzi were guest speakers.

NANAIMO (CP) — Three scientists have returned from the stormy waters off Cape Flattery after a four-month seal hunt in which they shot 500 seals — all for the interests of science.

The hunt was part of Canada's contribution to a four-nation study of the feeding habits, love life and habitat of the fur seal.

INTERCEPT SEALS Scientists Ian MacAskie, Gordon Pike and Dave Spalding conducted their hunt from the motor seiner Pacific Ocean at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca. It was their job to intercept seals as they moved northward along the coast heading toward the cooler Arctic water.

STUDY IN LAB

Organs of the animals were pickled for study in the laboratories at the Departure Bay biological station.

This is the third year Canada has sent out a sealing expedition under the plan.

Drunks Evaporate And So Does Crime

DUNCAN — Crime and drunks seem to be on the decline in this area.

On the crime front, the Duncan - Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has been told there has been a 35 per cent decrease in recent months.

As for the drunks, Ald. Hamish Mutter reported "the liquor situation seems to have improved."

Don Adams, employed by a number of local firms as a night patrolman, said, "Crime has dropped by 35 per cent since we started patrolling."

Mr. Adams thinks it would be a good idea to have an Indian constable to assist him with the nightly checks.

Cliff Pascoe, chairman of the retail division of the chamber, said he is pleased with the decrease in crime since the night patrolman started work.

Regarding the liquor situation in Duncan, aldermen expressed concern over this problem several weeks ago.

Ald. Mutter called for a check to be made on the behavior of some of the beer parlor patrons.

He wondered — at that time — how far the police could go. He called for more control, mainly in the serving of drinks to persons already intoxicated.

To try to control the situation, council wrote to local hotelmen asking for action to prevent drunken scenes outside their beer parlors.

Since the letters were written, Ald. Mutter said the situation has improved.

'Slave Wages' Denied by Marketer

Charges that private operators are swindling Cowichan Indian sweater knitters by paying "slave wages" for their work, were vigorously denied in Victoria yesterday.

Norman Loughheed, proprietor of Dominion Import and Export Co. Ltd., said his company — which specializes in the purchase and sale of the sweaters — pays the Indians as much, or more, than does the Indian-owned co-operative.

We'll Answer With Force Says Nikita

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev challenged the West on all major cold war issues last night and demanded a German peace treaty within six months. This would end the Western occupation rights in Berlin.

"Some threaten they will not recognize (a treaty) and will use force to oppose it," Khrushchev said. "Any force against us will be answered by force. We have the means."

His take-it-or-leave-it challenge came in an unprecedented, internationally televised "fireside chat" on his Vienna talks with President Kennedy.

He called the Vienna talks worthwhile and said there should be further sessions so world problems "may be solved eventually."

But he restated his intent to sign a peace treaty with East Germany within the year and end the allied occupation rights there.

Ulbricht Threatens

Only a few hours earlier East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht openly threatened interference with West Berlin's traffic should a peace treaty be signed and hinted that Western planes might be forced down if they tried to form another Berlin airlift.

Khrushchev's statement was a grim restatement of every Soviet stand of the past year from Berlin to disarmament. Last night he appeared to doom the Geneva nuclear test ban talks to failure when he insisted on his plan for "troika" control—a three-man control commission comprised of representatives of the East,

West and a neutralist nation, with each man carrying a veto.

Khrushchev was unyielding on any cold war point. He called for a German peace treaty within the year, threatened to hand over Berlin communication routes to the East Germans and said Russia would fight to help East Berlin defend its borders.

He was just as unyielding on disarmament. He said all attempts to reach agreement on disarmament have failed and restated his demands for a Communist veto in future cold war negotiations. He called again for veto controls over United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld.

United States Blamed

He blamed the United States for the growing crisis in Laos but put the blame more on former president Dwight D. Eisenhower than on Kennedy. He warned, however, that the United States must be aware of the consequences of further provocations in Asia.

Though much of his speech was a restatement of previous speeches and his Vienna memoranda to Kennedy on Berlin and disarmament, Khrushchev said that lack of a German peace treaty threatened world war.

"In general I was satisfied with the talks" with President Kennedy," he said. The talks were very frank. I listened to the American views and our views were listened to. That was valuable.

"It was not expected that agreement would be reached. But I believe that Kennedy understands the great responsibilities of our two powerful states."

Later in his speech Khrushchev was particularly bitter toward a group of Canadian

Coyne Counter-Attack Keeps Battle Boiling

OTTAWA (CP)—James E. Coyne, with a government axe hanging over his job, struck back yesterday with a charge that the government—not himself—has failed to meet the country's economic problems.

An accusation of inadequate fiscal action by the government was contained in a sharply worded statement by the Bank of Canada governor replying to Wednesday's heavy attack on him by Finance Minister Fleming in the Commons.

COUNTER-ATTACK
The counter-attack by one of the country's top public servants kept at a boiling point the controversy over the government's May 30 request for his resignation. Mr. Coyne refused to quit and Mr. Fleming said Wednesday the government will seek parliamentary action to fire him.

The strongest rebuff by the 50-year-old governor was to Mr. Fleming's statement that Mr. Coyne—custodian of monetary policy—had advocated "restrictionist" economic policies.

CONSTRUCTIVE
"The trouble has not been in the field of monetary policy, which has always played a constructive part in Canadian economic development . . .," Mr. Coyne said.

"What has been lacking so far is adequate action in the field of fiscal growth of the Canadian economy under Canadian ownership and control."

OBVIOUS REFERENCE
In an obvious reference to Mr. Fleming's statement that government policy is "expansionist" aimed at increased trade, production and jobs, the governor commented:

"In this respect Mr. Fleming revealed yesterday the government now has been suddenly converted . . . The whole country will be glad to hear this."

IMPOSSIBLE
Mr. Coyne, in effect, rejected Mr. Fleming's statement that it has become impossible for the government to expect the bank governor's co-

CBC Offer Refused By Coyne

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC says that James Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada, has declined an invitation from the network to appear with Finance Minister Fleming in a special half-hour television press conference.

A CBC spokesman said Mr. Fleming had accepted the invitation to face a panel of reporters with the bank governor.

'Borrow in U.S.' For Columbia

WASHINGTON (CP)—Two Canadian professors conclude that it would be a lot cheaper to borrow Columbia River development funds in the United States than in Canada.

In a study prepared for a private research organization known as Resources for the Future, the University of Western Ontario professors suggest the U.S. government should do most of the borrowing and turn the proceeds over to a Canadian development agency.

The professors estimated that if the Canadian funds for the project are raised in Canada, the interest rate might be about 5 1/2 per cent. This would decrease to about 5 per cent if borrowing is done by a Canadian government in the U.S. and to about 4 1/2 per cent or less if borrowing is done in the U.S. under the auspices of the U.S. government.

Shipping Paralysis Threatens

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four maritime unions early today called an immediate three-coast strike against shipowners that could paralyze the American merchant shipping industry.

The strike threatens to idle about 1,000 American passenger ships, freighters and tankers.

Action Urged To Block Ad 'Raids'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Gratian O'Leary royal commission on publications proposed action on two fronts Thursday to block American raids on Canadian advertising revenues:

Increased costs to advertisers who choose a foreign-owned outlet and an import ban on foreign magazines carrying advertising aimed specifically at the Canadian market. (See also Page 14.)

SOMBRE VIEW

The commission said the role of the periodical press in building Canadian unity cannot be ignored, but it cannot contribute its share if it is beset by overwhelming competitive conditions that threaten its survival.

With this sombre view of the situation in the Canadian magazine field, the three-man commission suggested a program to halt the flow of domestic advertising revenues to U.S.-owned periodicals no matter where they are printed.

DIRECT METHOD

The commission said the simplest and most direct method of dealing with the diversion of Canadian domestic advertising to foreign periodicals printed in Canada is to deny the advertiser the privilege of deducting his advertising costs as a business expense.

SCHEDULE URGED

For foreign periodicals entering Canada, the commission proposed that Canada provide under a Customs Act schedule that magazines entering Canada shall contain no advertising "which on its face indicates the availability of a product or service in Canada or is otherwise primarily directed to consumers in Canada."

MAIN TARGETS

Principal targets if the recommendations are adopted by the government would be Time and Reader's Digest. Both magazines publish Canadian editions and between them have been picking up some 40 per cent of magazine advertising revenue in Canada.

The Canadian edition of Time is printed in the U.S. but it has announced plans to move the printing job to Canada. The Reader's Digest is printed in Montreal.

BEING CONSIDERED

In tabling the report in the Commons, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the government is giving it careful consideration in the light of the administration's objective "to foster a sound and strong Canadianism."

Much of the writing of the 25,000-word report—reinforced by a bulky separate volume of appendices—carried the unmistakable style of commission chairman Gratian O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal and a newspaperman for more than half a century.

With him on the commission were George Johnston and Claude Beaubien.

GRATIAN O'LEARY

'They Mean To Destroy Us'—Time

MONTREAL (CP)—Time magazine said yesterday it is slated for destruction in Canada if the O'Leary report were put into effect and doubted the government or the Canadian people would approve the recommendations.

'CLEAR INTENTION'

Lawrence E. Laybourne, managing director of Time International of Canada Limited, said "the clear intention of the report seems to be to destroy Time in Canada."

"We cannot believe that the government would adopt such recommendations or that the Canadian people would approve such action."

The Reader's Digest said some of the recommendations are "discriminatory" against what it considers to be a Canadian operation.

OTTAWA (UPI)—A three-year preliminary study, released yesterday by the federal government, blames both manufacturers and retailers for Canadian drug prices being "among the highest in the world."

The study, submitted by combines investigation director D. H. W. Heary as background for a fuller probe, said Canadian drug prices generally ran about 11 per cent above United States levels, already criticized as exorbitant by a U.S. Congressional committee.

Justice Minister E. Davis Fulton, who tabled the preliminary study in the Commons, announced earlier this week that the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission will open public hearings on the issue July 4 in Ottawa.

KEY FACTOR

Henry's 280-page report pointed to the control over drug manufacture, distribution and sale given manufacturers through patents as the key factor behind the high prices. These patents have been used to create a monopolistic situation which had "virtually eliminated" competition in ethical drug pricing, the report said.

ADVANTAGE TAKEN

"The clear intention of the special provisions of the Canadian patent law is that this situation should not obtain," it said. "However, advantage has not been taken of these provisions and the drug industry in Canada is, for all practical purposes, operating under conditions determined by the patent laws of the United States."

On the retail level, the report said it found "very little" price competition. And it blamed the situation on the druggists themselves for adopting with little variation the suggested prices and rates provided by manufacturers and pharmacists associations.

'FROWNED ON'

"Failure by a druggist to observe these suggested prices is frowned on as chiselling," it added.

The same situation applied to prescriptions, the report said. Any attempt by druggists to compete in this field was regarded as "at least verging on unethical conduct," it said.

On the controversy over generic versus brand names, the report said increased use of generic names by doctors would "undoubtedly exert some pressure on the prices of brand-named products."

'Rock' Tactics Mend Marriages Overnight

LONDON (UPI)—Britons, whose divorce rate is soaring, were advised yesterday by the "Solicitors' Journal" to follow the custom of the tiny Okinawan fishing village of Ganka and set up a "divorce rock."

The magazine said that when a marriage in Ganka appeared to be heading for a divorce, the couple is banished to the offshore "divorce rock" with no other company and only one blanket for the two of them.

The Journal added that it usually takes only one night to bring an end to any marital squabble. The custom works well—Ganka has not had a divorce in 50 years.

Terror on TV Copied by Tiny Tots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators yesterday watched a film showing tiny tots committing television-type mayhem on their dolls.

Another film shown to the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee showed children who don't watch violent TV shows playing quietly with plastic tea sets and crayons.

The films were made by Stanford University psychologists as part of an experiment to find out whether children imitate the aggressive acts they see on television.

Dr. Albert Van Dura, a

Stanford psychology professor, said they do.

The first film shows children who just watched a violent 10-minute film kicking a doll around the room, throwing it in the air, sitting on it and beating it with a mallet while screaming "punch him in the nose" and "kick him."

Such remarks, said Van Dura, were extremely rare among children who hadn't watched adult violence.

The children who hadn't watched the film picked up crayons, tea sets and plastic farm animals to play with. Van Dura said the experiment left little doubt that "exposure to filmed aggressions heightens aggressive reactions in children."

Van Dura said his group observed the children through one-way mirrors, and decided children who watched the film were twice as violent as those who hadn't. Indeed, he said, the violence watchers were "carbon copies" of the actors they watched.
